Sentence for Bank Robbery

By the Associated Press.

HARRISON, Ark., Feb. 18.—Henry Starr, notorious Oklahoma outlaw, was seriously wounded today, when, with two other men, he backed officers and employees of the People's Bank of Harrison into the vault when attempting to rob the institution. One of the men who had hidden a rifle into the vault obtained the weapon and as he backed into the vault shot Starr down and opened fire at the other two, who escaped.

Starr, lying wounded on a bed at the county jail, admitted his identity. His companions were soon afterward reported surrounded in a wood, two miles south of the town, by an armed posse of more than 100 men.

Sends Telegram to Wife.

Starr underwent an operation at the jail, made in an effort to save his life, and dictated telegrams to his wife at Tulsa and his son, Henry Starr Jr., at Oklahoma City, telling them that he was dying. He was shot through the body below the heart. Physicians later today said Starr probably would live.

"I always expected to die with my boots on," Starr told officers here.

At the jail it was said Starr gave the names of his two companions as Buck Davis and Tom Jones. The three robbers entered the bank shortly before noon and drawing pistols ordered the officers and employees to put up their hands. They did so, but before they could be loaded in the vault, W. T. Meyers, a former president and one of the principal stockholders, entered. He also was ordered into the vault and backed into it.

Meyers had concealed a rifle in the vault and was able to fire before his intention became known.

Set Automobile on Fire.

The two robbers who escaped fled in a motor car which they had driven to the door, but after driving a mile south of the town they set the machine on fire and escaped into the hills.

The three men are believed to be the same who held up the bank of Belton, Mo., just across the Arkansas line, in December. They escaped into Arkansas.

The robbers obtained no money, as Starr had the $6000 stuffed in his pockets, and was seeking all the currency in the bank when he ordered the cashier to open the safe.

The robbers drove into town early this morning, and shortly before the robbery circled the town and cut all the telephone wires.

Cashier Hoffman, when told to open the safe, stooped to do so with Starr covering him with his revolver, and his companions keeping the other occupants of the bank covered. Starr, in his anxiety, stooped over to watch Hoffman closely, and at that moment Meyers fired the shot that ended the raid on the bank.

Starr Paroled Two Years Ago

When He Gave Information.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Ok., Feb. 18.—Henry Starr, famous Oklahoma outlaw, reported fatally shot at Harrison, Ark., today, was pardoned two years ago by Gov. Robertson from a 25-year sentence on a bank robbery charge. It was the second parole for Starr, he having been freed from prison in territorial days by presidential pardon when serving a term on a similar charge.

Starr was captured in March, 1918, after having been shot following the robbery of two banks at Streed, Ok. He was convicted in Lincoln County in August, 1915, and sentenced to the penitentiary for Starr's parole, issued March 15, 1919, was granted because he gave information which led to the capture and conviction of two members of the gang with which he was connected. Court members over nearly 30 years, he has been convicted of many crimes. He was three times convicted of first degree murder and sentenced to hang in Arkansas, but each time carried the case to the Supreme Court and had the verdict set aside. He finally was permitted to plead guilty of manslaughter.

He was regarded as a desperado

COLDEST WEATHER
OF WINTER LIKELY
DURING NEXT WEEK

Wave to Be Felt Over Much of Country East of Rockies,
Special Bulletin Says.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18.—The coldest weather of the winter may be expected over much of the country east of the Rocky Mountains during the next week, according to a special bulletin forecast issued today by the Weather Bureau.

The cold wave will extend southward over Gulf and South Atlantic States, and carry freezing temperatures to the coast the first part of the week, the bulletin said.

Following is the text of the forecast:

"The general distribution of barometrical pressure over the Pacific Ocean and Alaska has undergone a profound change within the last several days and it has become of the type that is the forerunner of cold weather in the United States generally east of the Rocky Mountains. The outlook, therefore, is for much colder weather generally east of the Rocky Mountains during the next several days. It seems probable that the coldest weather of the winter may be expected over much of the country during the coming week.

The cold wave will extend southward over the Gulf and South Atlantic states, carrying freezing temperatures to the coast, the first part of the coming week."

HENRY FORD TELLS HOW "BIG LOAN"
STORY STARTED

Says Klingensmith Made Inquiries Without Authority, and Only Thing to Do Was to Let Him Go.

NEVER WOULD SEEK AID IN WALL STREET

Bankers Flocked to Dearborn
When Story Was Spread,
but Only One Got to See the Manufacturer.

By a Staff Correspondent of the

New York World and Post-Dispatch.

DETROIT, Feb. 18.—Another resignation of an important official of the Ford Motor Co. has set everybody asking again: "What's going on in the organization, anyhow?"

Hubert E. Hartman, assistant secretary and general counsel of the concern, announced yesterday that he had handed in his quit-papers, which will take effect March 15.

He makes the seventh executive to leave the Ford service within a few months. The others were Frank L. Klingensmith, vice president; W. C. Anderson, European chief; Charles A. Brownell, advertising manager; L. H. Turrell, auditor; Louis Block, branch manager at Philadelphia; and the Rev. S. Marquis, sociologist and head of the welfare work.

The answer to the question: "What's going on?" is really very simple. "A house cleaning"—that's the answer. While some of these executives may have departed voluntarily from the Ford organization, the plain truth is that the majority of them were fired.

Tells How Loan Story Started.

Mr. Ford himself told me of the manner in which the most important of the former employees—Mr. Klingensmith—severed his connection with the company and in telling this the head of the great concern also cleared up whatever mystery may remain as to the alleged application for a big loan from Wall street.

This is what gave rise to the report that Ford wanted a loan, he explained:

Back in 1919, when Mr. Ford determined to buy up the minority stock of his company that was outstanding, he did take a good-sized loan from a Boston trust company.

The major part of this loan has been paid back by now, but early in the year there was some millions outstanding and Klingensmith, who was regarded as the financial expert of the Ford Motor, went down to New York to make certain arrangements about payments.

"Now Kling is a fellow who likes to talk big figures," Mr. Ford explained. "He likes to flit around, as I might call it, with millions. He's the kind of a chap who might drop in on a banker and say, 'Well, what's the chance of getting hold of $50,000,000 today—or $75,000,000, or $100,000,000?'"

"We did not want any money at that time. We don't want any now. Kling had no authority to ask for any loan. But apparently he made some inquiries of the kind I mentioned, and that started the story that we were in the market for money. The story was spread far and wide by certain interests we are dealing with in our weekly paper (the means, of course, the Jews) for propaganda purposes."

There was only one thing to do to prove to them that we didn't need or want money and that Kling was acting without authority. That one thing was to let Kling go."

Was Bookkeeper 20 Years Ago.

At the time Klingensmith turned in his resignation he told the Detroit newspapers that he "could not agree with the policies of the company." He was said today to be in Chicago, discussing a new connection. He started in almost 20 years ago at $18 a week as a bookkeeper for the Ford company. He rose from that to vice president and general manager at $75,000 a year. He is reputed to be a millionaire a couple of times over, as he has been successful in real estate in the suburbs of this city.

What happened at Dearborn after the rumor got abroad that Ford wanted a lot of money was rather ludicrous, those told there say.

Bankers' representatives thronged to the little village and besieged the offices which Ford maintains in what used to be the tractor making plant. The majority of them, it is said, represented Gentile institutions and some of them urged that fact upon the Ford employees who saw them in the outer part of the building, apparently believing that this argument would be weighty because of the unfavorable articles concerning Jews which the Ford paper is running.

Only one banker's representative actually penetrated to the sanctum of the motor manufacturer himself and he did not stay long. "I wanted to see what a Wall Street

CARUSO HAS GOOD
GREATLY IMPROVED

Fever Somewhat Relieved, Respiration Improved, and
He Is Able to Take Some Nourishment.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 18.—Enrico Caruso passed a good night and his condition is distinctly improved today, said an official bulletin issued from his bedside at noon.

The bulletin signed by the five physicians who have been attending the tenor since he was stricken with a heart attack following pleurisy, continued:

"Rumors of operations done or to be done are based on false information."

Caruso's fever was somewhat reduced, his respiration improved, and he was able to take some liquid nourishment several times during the night. This served to brighten him and induced intermittent periods of slumber.

Despite these reports that seemed to portend the singer's recovery, it was admitted that he still was gravely ill and not yet out of the crisis.

He is favored, physicians said, by his indomitable spirit, which has brought him safely through the heart attack and the relapses that have followed.

First Shave Since Relapse.

Caruso had his first shave today since his relapse. At 10:30 o'clock Vito Caronna of the hotel barber shop appeared with his razor in the sick chamber and 30 minutes later the stubble on the tenor's face had disappeared. The barber, who has shaved Caruso many times, remarked as he left the apartment that the singer's face was thinner, but not as thin as he expected.

"I told him," said Caronna, "that all Italy and all Italians in this country are praying for him. There came a little into his eyes. He wanted to talk, but I would not let him, and his wife, who was beside me, also told him it was best to keep quiet."

Caronna, who explained twice that shaving the great tenor is a great and terrible operation, said the story that Caruso paid his barber $10 for a shave was gross exaggeration. According to Caronna, Caruso pays only $5.

Bruno Zirato, Caruso's secretary, left the sick room this morning for the first time since Tuesday night.

"Holding the Improvement."

Dr. Francis J. Murray, who had been at Caruso's bedside since last midnight, told newspapermen this

Whether Mr. Wilson Will

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18.—President-elect Harding, in a letter received today by President Wilson, requests that a luncheon be prepared at the White House on March 4 for him and his immediate family. The President and Mrs. Wilson will not be present, as Mr. Wilson plans to go direct from the Capitol after the inauguration to his new home on S street.

Whether the President will ride to the Capitol with the President-elect remains to be determined. Mr. Wilson will go to the Capitol on the morning of March 4 to sign bills passed in the closing hours of this session of Congress, but if he is present at the inauguration he will remain in his automobile during the ceremonies.

PRECINCT CANVASS OF REGISTRATION OPENS

Lists to Be Checked Up by Clerks
—13,000 Estimate of Names
Added Yesterday.

The precinct canvass, to check up names on the registration books, was begun this morning by the two clerks of election in each of the city's 400 precincts, following yesterday's supplementary registration. The election officials are required to return the books, with the names added yesterday, to the Election Board by 8 o'clock tonight. Following their canvass of today, the clerks must submit to the board, by 8 p. m. Monday, the printed precinct lists, with a crossmark against the names of persons who were not found as residing at the places from which they registered last September. The Election Board will send postal cards to such persons. March 11, primary day, will also be revision day, when persons who receive such cards, and who are still living at their former addresses, can explain matters to the precinct election officials, and have their names kept on the roll. Otherwise, the names crossmarked by the clerks will be stricken from the lists.

Yesterday's registration was chiefly to permit those who have removed since last September to register in their new precincts, for the primary March 11 and the election April 5. It is believed that the number of names which will be stricken off in the precinct canvass will be much larger than the number which was enrolled yesterday. The number of new voters and new residents who registered yesterday will be offset, wholly or in large part, by the number of those who have died or have removed from the city since last September. It has been found in past years that the presidential election brings out a much larger registration than the subsequent city election.

One hundred and ninety-five precincts throughout the city, reported to the Election Board up to noon today, showed a total supplementary registration of 4395, the greater part of these being transfers of persons who have moved. At this rate, yesterday's total enrollment would be about 13,000. In some precincts, 50 to 80 names were handled; in others, the number was small, and the election officials loafed or played cards most of the day.

ONE SECRETARY FOR ARMY AND NAVY FAVORED BY DAWES

Chicago Banker, Before Convention in New York, Refers to Testimony He Gave in Washington.

NEW YORK, Feb. 12.—The consolidation of the army and navy under one secretary, to bring about a central control of expenditures, was suggested here last night by Charles G. Dawes, Chicago banker, at the tenth annual dinner of the American Bankers' Association.

Dawes asserted that the army and navy are supposed to be co-ordinated under the President as Commander in Chief of the armed forces of the United States, but that it is impossible for the President, with his other duties, to superintend their activities and produce real co-ordination.

Referring to his recent appearance in Washington, when he testified before a congressional committee, Dawes said:

"While I cannot indulge in the same language here, when I think of those demagogic rats, who for the last 15 years have been nibbling at the Constitution of the United States, I hope my friends will put in the proper interpellations themselves."

DOCTOR'S SON DISCHARGED IN PEACE DISTURBANCE CHARGE

Refused to Strike Father, but Struck Later's Woman Companion, It Was Charged.

Jesse M. Threadgill Jr., of 3559 Franklin avenue was discharged in Police Court yesterday on a charge of peace disturbance brought by Mrs. J. V. Coulter of 1870 Clara avenue, an attendant in the office of his father, Dr. J. M. Threadgill, in the University Club Building.

The alleged offense occurred Jan. 26 when Mrs. Coulter entered the office of Dr. Threadgill in company with the doctor and was told by the son not to take off her hat, but to leave. The son said his father interfered and struck him twice. The son then said, according to his testimony: "Father, I won't strike you, but for every time you strike me I'll strike her," and that he struck Mrs. Coulter twice.

A woman parole officer was assigned to investigate the case.

NEW PRICE ON NEWSPRINT

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 12.—The International Paper Co. has announced a price of 5.7 cents a pound on newsprint in rolls for carload lots for delivery during the second quarter of the current year. This quotation, which amounts to $114 a ton, compares with $130 a ton on deliveries during this quarter and the final quarter of 1920.

The company also has given customers the option of accepting a quotation of 5½ cents a pound from April 1 to the end of the year. This figure lowers the tonnage price to $110. In the event customers do not elect to take the flat price of 5½ cents a pound for the balance of the year, after April 1, they can continue under the present arrangement of having quotations adjusted quarterly.

VISITING PASTOR TO SPEAK
ON 'MANY CHILDREN OR FEW'Sunday to Mark Close of Series of Presbyterian Evangelistic Meetings.

The Rev. Dr. William Allen, pastor of the Metropolitan Tabernacle of New York, who is conducting evangelistic services this week at Washington and Compton Presbyterian Church, will speak there tonight on the subject "Many Children or Few? A Question Every St. Louis Home Must Face."

Sunday will be the last day of the evangelistic campaign in the Presbyterian churches. Preachers and subjects for tonight will be:

Grace Church, Dr. W. R. Graham, "Where There Is No Medium of Exchange"; Kirkwood, Dr. Leroy M. Colman, "Neutrality Is Treason"; Second, Dr. Harry C. Rogers, "The King's Own"; King's Highway, Dr. William M. Curry, "What Will You Do With Your Life?"; First, Dr. Aquila Webb, "Memory in Another World"; Carondelet, Dr. Emanuel Garvin, "Christ the First and the Last"; Webster Groves, Dr. Ford C. Ottman, "The Revolt of the Kings."

PETITIONS FOR COUNTY
VOTE ON ANNEXATIONWellston League Members Say
Opponents of Annexation
Are Afraid of Result.

Petitions urging the Legislature to permit the people of St. Louis County to have a vote on the question of annexation to the city of St. Louis have been in circulation in the county since Saturday. House and Senate committees will hold public hearings next week on a bill which would authorize such an election, and the petitions will be presented at that time through the agency of the Million Population Club.

The Wellston Annexation League had a meeting last night at 6423 Easton avenue, at which the advantages of annexation were set forth, and at which the opposition to annexation also was discussed with some heat. It was announced that 1200 signatures of Wellston residents had been obtained for the petitions.

Opponents Against Vote.
The petitions, it must be remembered, while circulated by annexationists, do not endorse annexation, but merely ask that the people be permitted to vote on the question. That is all the enabling bill would do. Many opponents of annexation, however, oppose the passage of the bill. They say the people don't want annexation. Supporters of the bill say, if that is the case, the anti-annexationists should be all the more anxious to have a vote taken.

"The fact is," said Alexander Campbell, president of the league, "that these fellows are afraid of a vote, because they know the people want annexation. If they thought for a minute that the vote would be against annexation they would raise heaven and earth to have an election."

Petitions in County.
Among the communities where the petitions are in circulation are Wellston, University City, Maplewood, Richmond Heights, Jennings, Kenwood Springs, Midland Heights, Hi-Pointe and Parkway. Of these, Wellston is the largest, having a population estimated at about 15,000.

A stranger going west on Easton avenue would cross the line that divides St. Louis from Wellston, and be entirely unconscious of the fact that he had left the city. The line of buildings stretches virtually unbroken from the downtown district. The city line crosses Easton avenue about 100 feet west of therolley station and car loop; in fact, it cuts across the very center of the business center that serves Wellston.

Significance of Dividing Line.
But that dividing line is a very substantial and distinct one, for all its imaginary qualities, as was emphatically pointed out last night. On one side of it is city fire and police protection, city street lighting, city water mains, city sewer connections. On the other side there is none of these. On the city side there are lower gas, electric, water and insurance rates—on the Wellston side are lower taxes.

For Wellston, with its population greater than that of Granite City or Collinsville, has no police force whatever. For protection it depends on the sheriff's office at Clayton or on constables who happen to live in Wellston.

Persons standing in Wellston can see St. Louis policemen calling in from a patrol box, a few feet away.

Provision for Fire Protection.
The community has a fire department which is maintained by private subscriptions, supplemented by the receipts from street fair dances. The fire hydrants are few and scattering, however, and also must be installed at an expense of $75 each, and maintained at a cost of $50 a year, as paid by private subscription. It was related at last night's meeting that during a serious fire in Wellston a St. Louis fire engine hooked on a Wellston hydrant that was supplied by a small main, with the result that the suction of the engine yanked about 200 feet of the main out of the ground.

The failure of previous enabling bills to pass the Legislature was attributed by some of those at last night's meeting to the influence of public service corporations that serve Wellston. It was pointed out that one of those which would stand to lose by annexation would be the West St. Louis Water & Light Co., which supplies water in Wellston, and which would be supplanted by city water connections. Comparing their rates with those in St. Louis, residents said that they now pay a minimum of $12 a year for water for residences. That is the rate when the drain has no sewer connection. When they have sewer connections, they said, the minimum is $18 a year.

The flat water rate for houses in St. Louis is $2 a year for the first three rooms and 70 cents a year for each additional room. Thus, the yearly rate for a six-room house would be $14.10.

Electric and Gas Rates.
Similarly, they contrasted their gas rate, given as $1.65 a thousand cubic feet, with the maximum domestic rate of 95 cents a thousand cubic feet in the city. The electric light rate in the city also is lower, they said.

A striking contrast, due, it was said, to the inadequate fire equipment of Wellston, was cited in the case of fire insurance rates. Adam Ostenshein said he owned a building in Wellston on which he had an insurance of $2.45 on the $100 valuation, while 70 feet away, but inside the city limits, was an identical building on which the rate is $1.20 per $100 valuation.

"The difference in city and county taxes would be compensated by the difference in our water and gas bills, and the saving on insurance would be clear profit," Ostenshein said.

The enabling bill pending in the Legislature would permit an election to be called 60 days after the adjournment of the legislative session, upon a petition signed by 100 county voters. If the county gave the proposition a majority, the incorporated towns inside the annexation zone would then vote on it. It would be necessary to pass the proposition, for each town to give a four-sevenths majority, and then St. Louis would, by vote, have to accept the territory desiring annexation before annexation would become a fact.

NATIONAL BANK AT RANGER, TEX., CLOSED AFTER "RUN"
RANGER, Tex., Feb. 18.—The First National Bank of Ranger did not open today and official said the institution would be taken over by a Federal bank examiner. Suspension is the result of failure to realize on loans and a "run" yesterday, officers said, adding that the bank is solvent.

MUSIC MEMORY TEST IN THE GRADE SCHOOLS

15,000 Pupils to Begin Preparation Monday for Event to Open April 18.

More than 15,000 pupils in the sixth, seventh and eighth grades of the public schools will begin active preparations Monday for a music memory test that will start April 18 under the direction of the Supervisory Committee of the Music Department, assisted by principals and teachers.

The plan contemplates a period of preparation lasting several weeks, during which participants will be trained in hearing a selected list of 40 classics. The numbers selected will be given to the pupils through the use of the phonograph, song, piano or some other medium of musical expression. The selections will be given at the schools either during the music period, during recess or after school. The test will consist of having the pupil name the piece, its composer and such other information requested, after hearing the piece played.

Elimination Tests Planned. At the conclusion of the preparatory test, there will be a sectional test, the various sections comprising districts of the different music supervisors. At the conclusion of the sectional tests, the winners will meet for a final test at a time and place to be selected later.

According to school officials the object of the test is to train the ear, cultivate the taste and develop the sense of musical appreciation. The interest and benefits to be derived will not be limited to the pupils participating, but it is believed that the homes will benefit indirectly through the interest aroused among the students.

Not only will the test preparations tend to familiarize pupils with the best in music, but, in addition, it is expected that through the close correlation of the work with that of language, pupils will learn the name of the composer, something concerning his life, when the music was written as well as other information pertaining to it. The emotional content of every piece will be discussed and analyzed. This will be the first time that a test of this character and magnitude has been given in the public schools.

The Numbers Selected.

The numbers selected for test purposes are as follows: "Minuet in G," Beethoven; "Tuneless," Dvorak; "Pilgrim's Chorus" (Tannhauser), Wagner; "Evening Star" (Tannhauser), Wagner; "Fifth Symphony," Beethoven; "Hark! Hark! the Lark," Schubert; "Large," Handel; "If With All Your Hearts," Mendelssohn; "Spring Song," Mendelssohn; "Lullaby," Brahms; "Melody in F," Schubert; "Soldier's Chorus" (Faust), Gounod; "Marche Slave," Tchaikovsky; "All Through the Night" (Folk), Welsh; "Seaweed River" (Folk), American; "Intermezzo" (Cavalleria Rusticana), Mascagni; "Toreador Chorus" (Carmen), Bizet; "Barcarolle" (Tales of Hoffman), Offenbach; "Sextette" (Lucia di Lammermoor), Donizetti; "Miserere" (Il Trovatore), Verdi; "Believe Me If All Those Endearing Young Charms" (Irish), "Annie Laurie" (Folk); "From the Land of the Sky Blue Water," Cadman; "Amaryllis" (Air Louis XIII), French; "Minuet," Paderewski; "The Swan," Saint-Saens; "Meditation" (Thais), Massenet; "Bacchante" (Jocelyn), "To a Wild Rose," MacDowell; "Narcissus," Nevin; "Midsummer Night" (Overture), Mendelssohn; "Traumerel," Schumann; "Antique Dance," Grieg; "In the Hall of the Mountain King," Grieg; "The Death of Ase," Grieg; "Morning," Grieg; William Tell—"At Dawn," Rossini; William Tell—"The Storm," Rossini; William Tell—"Calm," Rossini; William Tell—"Finale," Rossini.

JANITOR HELD FOR BURGLARY

Clothing valued at $415. Found in "Furnace Room" Apartment. John Kinder, 29 years old, a negro employed as a janitor in an apartment building at 6428 Cates avenue, University City, was arrested yesterday by City Marshal Ward and is held on a charge of burglary, following the discovery of $415 worth of clothing concealed in the furnace room of the apartment house. The thefts were discovered by Mrs. Louis C. Meid when she went into her cellar to get some preserves and found her entire stock, valued at $22, was missing.

Mrs. Meid mentioned her loss to Mrs. Andrew L. McCall, who investigated and found a cedar chest containing furs and clothing valued at $265 had been stolen. The negro confessed after his arrest and the cedar chest and clothing was recovered. Under a coal pile was found $150 worth of silks and clothing which Kinder said he took from other apartments. The negro said he ate the preserves in 16 days.

East St. Louisa House for Divorce. William A. Eggers of East St. Louis filed suit in the Circuit Court at Belleville yesterday afternoon to divorce Mrs. Mary Eggers, alleging that she was not divorced a year when she married him, and that therefore the marriage is not legal, and also alleging that she deserted him. They were married May 21, 1907, and he says she left him in August, 1920, and that she was divorced from John Maloney on June 10, 1907.

Spring Rent Increases Opposed. CHICAGO, Feb. 18.—The Chicago Real Estate Board yesterday formally opposed spring rent increases, declaring by unanimous adoption of a report from a committee that "nothing has occurred to warrant increases where rentals were adjusted last year."

1921 Spring Models, Tailored of Superfine Woolen Fabrics and Intended to Retail at

$60, $70, $80 to $90

Specially Priced for This Notable Occasion at

$42

St. Louis men and young men have seldom been confronted with a clothing proposition to equal this one. With Spring time rapidly approaching and Easter but a few weeks away, an opportunity to buy Suits such as these at a saving is indeed rare, and therefore doubly welcome. It happened in this way:

We Purchased From the Special Order Custom Department of A. B. Kirschbaum & Co. of Philadelphia

—about 21,000 yards of high-grade medium and light-weight woolen fabrics—imported and domestic. 4700 Suits were tailored from this material and these Suits were made right in their own custom department. The materials include the most wanted weaves, such as:

Fancy Silk-Mixed Worsteds*Fancy Velour-Finished Cassimeres*Plain blue, green and brown twill Flannels*Worsted pencil stripes in blue, black and brown*Fancy Cheviots in checks, stripes and mixtures*Plain Blue Serges in fine weaves*Fancy Scotch Tweeds*Fancy Irish Homespun

Tailored in the very newest 1921 Spring single and double breasted models in conservative and extreme effects. Sizes for regular, stout, short, stub and slim men as well as extra sizes.

Every man who has seen these Two-Trouser Suits has marveled at them. You will, too. $42 for new, seasonable clothes is a remarkably low price, especially when you consider the extra pair of trousers which means practically double service. Tomorrow, invest in one of these Suits. You'll never regret it.

Suits and Overcoats

MISS WILSON ASSAILS CRITICS OF COMMUNITY CENTERS

President's Daughter Says It Is None of Congressmen's Business if There Is Dancing.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—Members of Congress who, she said, had opposed appropriations for local community centers on the ground that they were "breeding unrest" were warmly taken to task by Miss Margaret Wilson, daughter of the President, in an address at yesterday's session of the National Woman's Party convention here. Declaring there was no evidence to support the charges, Miss Wilson asserted that, even granting there was such evidence, it was "not the business of Congress to supervise the activities of speech of those they represent," but "the business of the courts to try the individuals who have broken the law."

Adding there had also been expressions of opposition in Congress to the use of schools by community center organizations for dancing, Miss Wilson asked: "Granting that we have a moral right to use the school buildings, is it any of their business what we do in them, whether we listen to Socialist speeches or whether we dance?" Speaking as a representative of the national community center organization, Miss Wilson declared more could be accomplished toward true self-government and necessary social reforms by the organization of local groups into co-operative, thinking bodies than through the workings of party organizations. On this ground she advised immediate abandonment of the National Woman's Party, which, she said, was not in a broad sense "nonpartisan" but "exclusive," and organized for the purpose of "building up a woman's machine," which would not be "more honest or effective than a man's machine."

HOLMES TAKES AUDIENCE ON CONSTANTINOPLE TRIP

Golden Horn, as It Is Since War, shown in Splendid Pictures at the Odeon.

Burton Holmes gave the first of his series of five Thursday evening photo-stories of travel at the Odeon last night, taking a large audience through the after-the-war city of Constantinople and on a boat trip through the Golden Horn. Holmes' new pictures, both the stills, which are exquisitely colored, and the movies, are up to his usual standard, and the photographer has caught the points of interest in a pleasing manner.

Next Thursday night the Holmes picture-talk will be on Jerusalem.

GANZ ACCEPTS INVITATION TO DIRECT SYMPHONY CONCERT

Swiss Pianist Will Be First of Four Guest Conductors.

Rudolph Ganz, Swiss pianist, who is also experienced as an orchestral conductor, will be the first of a series of four guest conductors whom the St. Louis Symphony Society plans to bring here for the forthcoming concert. Ganz notified the symphony society yesterday of his acceptance of an invitation to conduct the concert of March 4-5.

He is to be the soloist at the concert of today and tomorrow night, which Frederick Fischer will conduct. Ganz has conducted several orchestras, including the celebrated Philharmonic of Berlin, acting as conductor when it played a symphony composed by him. He will select the program for the concert which he is to direct, and will be here for at least one rehearsal. It has not appeared yet whether the choice of guest conductors will have any bearing on the selection of a permanent head for the orchestra, to succeed the late Max Zach.

YOUNGEST ACTOR 3 YEARS OLD

"Hansel and Gretel" Will Be Given at Little Theater Tomorrow.

The youngest actor in "Hansel and Gretel," to be given tomorrow afternoon at the Little Theater of the Artists' Guild, will be Geraldine Boo, 3 years old. She will represent the sugar ornament on the big Christmas cake, which comes to life to dance in the ballet of candy toys, rescued by the Good Fairy from the gingerbread cottage of the broomstick witch. The fairy play will be given by the Junior Players under the direction of Miss Alice Martin, and will be repeated Feb. 26 and March 5, with tickets for all performances on sale at 1111 Olive street.

A big bowl in which the witch mixes the children she catches into cakes and candy will be one of the realistic features of the play, which will be given by a large cast composed entirely of children. Helene Higgins will take the part of the witch; Katharine Bright, Gretel, and Franklin Schipper, Hansel. The production will be the last to be given this season by the Junior Players.

MAN FOUND SHOT REFUSES TO TELL WHO WOUNDED HIM

Shoe Worker, With Police Record, Found on Porch, Tells of Crawling After Being Shot on Street.

SAYS HE WAS ON WAY TO SALOON

Place Where He Says He Had Left Overcoat Found Closed at 9 P. M., Earlier Than Usual.

Leo Hanney, 27 years old, a shoe-worker with a police record, who is at the city hospital seriously wounded, persists in his refusal to tell who shot him. He was found at 9:40 o'clock last night on the rear porch of Herman W. Steloh's residence, 1825 Rauschenbach avenue, to which he had crawled after being shot in the abdomen.

Steloh called policemen to his home. Hanney told them he did not know who shot him. On the way to the city hospital he told a policeman that even if he did know who shot him he would not identify or prosecute his assailant.

At the hospital later Hanney said he ate supper at a restaurant near Eighteenth street and Cass avenue and left there about 8:30 p. m. and walked west to Nineteenth street and north to Madison street. He said he intended to go to a saloon at Twenty-second and Madison streets, of which John Cuddy is manager, to get his overcoat, which he had left there.

He was between Twentieth and Twenty-first street, on Madison street, he said, when a man stepped in front of him from a hallway and shot him without warning. He wandered around until he could walk no more, he said, and then crawled into the yard and on to the porch of the Steloh home, where he collapsed after knocking on the kitchen door.

Policemen who were sent to the saloon mentioned by Hanney found it closed. Neighbors said the lights in the saloon were put out about 9 o'clock, though the place usually was kept open until a much later hour. Policemen were unable to find Cuddy and Matt Donnelly, reputed owner of the saloon.

Hanney has been arrested 15 times in the last four years. He was arraigned on a burglary and larceny charge June 6, 1917, but was permitted to plead guilty to petit larceny. He was sentenced to serve a year in the workhouse, but was at once paroled and served no part of the sentence. He was fined $25 in Police Court, Feb. 7, 1920, on a charge of vagrancy.

SAID TO ADMIT SLUGGING CHINESE TO OBTAIN DRUG

Cook Brought Back From Chicago Signs Statement That He Assaulted Weaver

Harrison Weaver, 23 years old, a cook, who said he had no home and who was brought back from Chicago last evening on suspicion of having slugged Leong Hoo, a Chinese, with a sawed-off billiard cue, in Leong's room in the rear of 718 Market street, Feb. 1, admitted in a signed statement to the police today that he committed the assault to obtain a drug which he uses.

Leong, who is secretary of the On Leong, a Chinese mercantile and laborers' association, at 20 South Eighth street, was seriously injured, but has recovered and today identified Weaver as his assailant.

The police questioned Weaver concerning the murder, Dec. 18 last, of Jung York, in his laundry, at 1305 Olive street, who was found stabbed to death. He denied any knowledge of this crime. He is being held on a charge of assault to kill in the Leong case.

IGOE PARTNERSHIP DISSOLVED

The law partnership of Congressman William L. Igoe and United States District Attorney James E. Carroll has been dissolved. It has been announced that when Congressman Igoe retires from office on March 4 he will open law offices in the Boatmen's Bank Building with Vance J. Higgs, who until Feb. 1 was Special Assistant United States Attorney in charge of the prosecution of violations of the Federal narcotic and liquor laws.

District Attorney Carroll said today that he had asked for the dissolution of his partnership with Congressman Igoe because he found his work as District Attorney required all his time.

India Affirms Relations With Britain

By the Associated Press.
DELHI, British India, Feb. 13.—The legislative assembly, after a four hours' debate yesterday, adopted a resolution, firstly, affirming that the relations between India and the British Empire be maintained on a basis of equal partnership and complete racial equality; secondly, regretting application of martial law by the administration of Punjab—this being calculated to deeply wound the self-respect of the Indians; and, thirdly, demanding compensation for the families of the Amritsar victims on the same scale as Europeans.

a lawyer and former Election Commissioner, will be chairman, in active charge of the club's campaign.
Some of the backers of the club are Dwight F. Davis, Benjamin Gratz, Harry B. Wallace, Max Kotany, Charles Nagel, Edward Mallinckrodt, Emil N. Tolke, Richard Barthold and John H. Gundlach.

Kortjohn said, in speaking of the plans for the campaign, that opposition to the third term would be emphasized, and that Burkham's pledge of economy would be a leading feature of the appeal to voters.

A Burkham organization has been formed for three South St. Louis wards, the Tenth, Eleventh and Twelfth. This club, known as the South End Republican Club, met at 3309 South Seventh street last night, with Gus Hertz presiding. It was announced that 640 applications for membership had been received.

CHARGES PREFERRED AGAINST 25 POSTOFFICE CLERKS

Men Cited for Alleged Misappropriation of Undelivered Magazines.

Charges of appropriating magazines to their own use have been preferred against about 25 clerks of the St. Louis Postoffice, who have been cited to show why they should not be discharged or penalized.

In a number of cases, it is charged, the clerks destroyed addresses on magazines to make them impossible of delivery. After two weeks, if the publisher had not asked for their return, they were considered waste, and the men would then obtain them. This is against the rules of the postoffice. "In other cases, it is charged, the men readdressed magazines to their homes without waiting until they became waste. Local authorities have no jurisdiction over the matter, and a decision is being awaited from Washington.

One of the accused clerks stated last night that all those accused had acknowledged taking magazines from the waste, but that it was a practice indulged in even by some supervisory officials.

NEW CHARGE AGAINST HOWAT

Kansas Miner's Head Arraigned Under Criminal Provision.

By the Associated Press.
COLUMBUS, Kan., Feb. 13.—
Alexander M. Howat, president of the Kansas Mine Workers' Union, and August Dorchy, vice president,
were arraigned in Justice Court here last night on a charge of violating the criminal provisions of the State Industrial Relations Court by calling a strike Feb. 3 and were held for preliminary hearing March 1.
The men, who pleaded not guilty, were released on bonds of $4000
each.

Previously they had appeared before District Judge Andrew J. Curran in Pittsburg and given bond covering their appeal of a year's sentence in jail imposed Wednesday by Judge Curran at Pittsburg after he had held them to be in contempt of court for calling the strike, which was in the mines of the Mackie Fuel Co. in Crawford County. Howat issued a statement during the day saying the Industrial Court could not prevent strikes and the latest court action would not interfere with the strike in Crawford County.

RECOMMENDATION ON SCHOOL BILL

man thought the people were better judges of nominees than conventions would be and was answered with
"yes."

He got considerably worked up and walked up and down the room alternately reading from a book of house bills and asking questions in a very loud voice.

The question of whether the movement to try out the petition system was a device by Democrats was injected into the hearing, whereupon Grossman called upon the women to explain.

Mrs. Charles L. Passmore, formerly St. Louis member on the National Republican Ways and Means Committee, spoke first, introducing
Mrs. Ernest Kroeger, who explained that she is chairman of the Women's Committee, formed at a city-wide convention of delegates from 95 women's organizations. She said that an effort had been made to co-operate with the Republican City Committee and that she and another representative of the Women's Committee had had two conferences with Chairman Strodtman, who was very courteous but gave them no satisfaction.

"It may have been impossible for the chairman to co-operate with the women," she said, "but we finally concluded unless we did something ourselves, we would sit around until April 6, so our petition movement resulted."

Other Representatives Present.
Mrs. Swingley, Republican Committee member from the Twenty-eighth Ward, and Republican vice president of the St. Louis League of Women Voters, also spoke, detailing the triple organization by which the League has Republican, Democratic and Independent officers.

The St. Louis representatives present, in addition to those mentioned, were Goodenough, Caulfield, Weber, Wetzel and Smith. Manning is a member of the Elections Committee, said he wanted to find out what Representative Bailey of Jasper County, member of the Board of Education of Carthage, appeared to say that the bipartisan plan has been very successful in Carthage. He tend the hearing.

AGENT OF MOLDERS' UNION ARRESTED ON RIOTING CHARGE

East St. Louis Men Alleged to Have Attacked Strike-breakers.

Three men arrested in East St. Louis Wednesday evening on a charge of rioting, furnished bond yesterday to appear for preliminary examination Feb. 24, in the court of Justice Clark.

The men gave their names as Nathan Hill, 32 years old, of 3714 Cass avenue, St. Louis, who said he was business agent for the molders' union in the St. Louis district, and that he is now employed as a stage hand; Daniel Stamper, 22 years old, molder, of 1721 East Broadway, and Arthur Goudy, 23, of 3607 Louisiana boulevard, both of East St. Louis.

Molders quit work at the steel plant a month ago when the company issued notice that wages had been reduced and in the future the company would deal with each individual as an individual. The men demand that their union be recognized. Since they quit their places have been filled with other workmen, a number of whom have been assaulted, some being dragged from street cars.

LUMBERMEN DISCUSS HIGH BUILDING COST

Figures on 5-Room House in Aurora, Ill., Taken to Show Decrease in Lumber Prices.

Members of the Lumbermen's Exchange of St. Louis, at their meeting yesterday at Hotel Statler, discussed an article appearing in the American Lumberman for Feb. 5, showing that a five-room, two-story stucco house which was built in Aurora, Ill., in the spring of 1929 at a total cost of $5918.20 could now be erected complete for $5042.50, a reduction of $875.70.

A significant point in the view of the lumbermen was the fact that 77 per cent of the entire reduction occurred in the cost of lumber and mill work.

The figures for this house would apply approximately to St. Louis, the lumbermen said, the chief difference being that all labor items would run a little higher. The percentage would be about the same here as in Aurora, they said.

It was the opinion of most of those who took part in the discussion that the continued high price of labor, brick, sand, cement, hardware and other materials was still obstructing building in spite of the reduction of from 25 to 50 per cent in lumber prices.

The reduction in the cost of lumber used in the Aurora house was 34 per cent, and mill work decreased 27 per cent. The only other items showing any appreciable decrease were plumbing, 20 per cent, and electric wiring and fixtures, 16 per cent.

Following are the comparative prices of the various items of the Aurora house at the time it was built and now:

Item.	Peak Price	Present Price	Percent of Decrease

WOMAN GIVES $10,000 TO ST. LOUIS U. ENDOWMENT FUND

Several Additional Contributions Are Announced at Meeting of Executive Committee.

Announcement of additional gifts to the St. Louis University endowment fund were made at a meeting of the joint executive committee of the fund at the university last night. At the head of the list stood Mrs. John L. Boland, 7208 Wydown boulevard, who made a "Founder's" contribution of $10,000, being the third woman to qualify for this honor, the other two being Mrs. Julia Maffitt Walsh, who gave $10,000, and Mrs. William C. McBride, with a donation of $25,000.

The National Bank of Commerce, with a gift of $5000, was second on the list. In his letter to the Rev. Father Wm. F. Robinson announcing the gift, President John G. Lonsdale stated that it gave him great pleasure to announce the action of the directors, not only because many of the officers and employees of the bank had received their education at St. Louis University, but also because the university had been making real men out of the boys of the community for more than 100 years. Other gifts announced were $1000 from W. Pickel, $2000 in memory of the late M. B. Scanlan and $2000 collected by the subcommittee representing the milling interests, of which Samuel Plant is the chairman; Mrs. Jacob Gross of Normandy, $3000; E. V. Schneiderhahn, $1000, and another "unknown donor," who sent Father Robinson a check for $10,000.

ATTEMPT TO STEAL CAR RESULTS IN COLLISION

Truck Gardener Knocked Unconscious When Struck by Automobile.

A man about 30 years old took a Ford automobile belonging to August Meyer, 2905 Vest avenue, when he parked it in front of 2514 North Ninth street yesterday afternoon, and in his hurried efforts to get away, drove the machine into an automobile driven by Edward W. Moon of 1507 Farragut street, at Thirteenth and Montgomery streets. Moon's car was turned over, and by the time Moon had disentangled himself from the wreckage, the driver of the Ford had escaped. Moon was bruised.

Jacob Mayer, 27 years old, of Afton, Mo., a truck gardener, was knocked from his wagon and rendered unconscious when the wagon was struck by an automobile driven by James B. Moran of 4224 Cates avenue, at Grand and Gravelle avenues, last night. Florence Rosencel, 17, of 6601 Minnesota avenue, suffered a bruised hip and nervous shock when struck by an automobile driven by Antonio P. Paganos of 4132 McPherson avenue, at Grand and Windsor place.

St. Louis Is World's Largest Shoe and Fur Market.

It is also the largest drug, coffee, hardware, lumber, hardware and horse and mule market in the world, though few St. Louisans know these facts.

The Upholstery Factory of the Prufrock-Litton Furniture Company, at Fourth and St. Charles streets, is the largest in St. Louis and ranks with the finest and largest manufacturers of upholstered furniture in the United States.

Living-Room Furniture may be selected from their sample floors and made up in their factory in any covering you may select from their varied stock. Every piece combines Quality, Beauty and Endurance.

Business firms who want your orders for cleaning, repairing and other services are advertising in the Post-Dispatch Want Page.

territories of export and insures even distribution of the benefits. It is difficult for the organization committee to be more specific than this in predicting benefits or expenditures. Promising the individual manufacturer that were he to subscribe to the stock he would benefit directly is not at all possible. The product bought, the kind bought and the firms patronized, it must be remembered, will be regulated by the needs of the foreign buyer to whom the credit is extended.

Nation Needs Buyers.
Prosperity depends upon people abroad buying as well as folks at home. Increased consumption is admittedly a relief from unemployment, idle factories and stagnated conditions in the movement of agricultural and raw materials. Consumption at home reflects the business situation—the public attitude; consumption abroad is dependent upon the extension of long-term credits to European countries and the definite establishment of our international political relations with borrowing countries.

Unstable foreign exchange, the barometer of restricted foreign trade relations, brought about mainly by the lack of long-term credits, is slowly closing the markets of the world to the United States. There is absolute need in Europe for greater imports for consumption than they have ability to produce for export in equivalent value; this is the real reason for the American dollar being at such a premium, and trade at virtually a standstill.

The people of other countries need our surplus goods, products and raw materials. We need the goods they produce and we need their patronage in order to keep our own people employed. These needs do not balance. The requirements of other countries from us exceed our requirements from them. How can this balance be safely financed? Our commercial banks cannot finance it except through the diversion of funds urgently needed for business here at home.

Foreign Credits as Betterment.
The United States is in this position: For generations the United States consumed what the factories here made. Then, for six years American plants speeded up to supply world markets, so that plants, farms and mines are keyed up to the point of production that exceeds home needs.

These foreign customers are just as anxious as ever to buy, but, with the governmental means of war financing past, the means of exchange, when the balance of trade is so overwhelmingly in our favor, are prohibitive to increasing trade. War has exhausted the cash and short-term credit powers of these foreign customers, yet their responsibility, their assets and securities are as satisfying as ever under the proper organization to warrant the extension of long-term credits, which would afford them time to market, distribute and realize the actual cash for payment. It is certain that the people of other countries cannot now quickly revive and continue to be good customers of ours unless we give them all the assistance that prudent business judgment will permit.

Possible to Concentrate Strength.
Through the financing corporation, operating under the Edge law, it will be possible to concentrate a substantial part of the financial and industrial strength so that it may be applied to the support of foreign commerce in much the same manner as the present banking facilities, co-ordinated through the Federal Reserve System, are made available for the maximum of service and protection to domestic commercial and industrial interests.

This nation cannot hold or further extend its trade, unless the machinery necessary for granting long-term credits is perfected. Our commercial banks, co-operating through the Federal Reserve System, and with the newly developed discount market, provide for this country unsurpassed facilities for financing the short-term domestic and foreign commerce. Like machinery is essential in the handling of long-term foreign business.

There is a surplus of goods, and a surplus of labor, estimated at 2,000,000 people, in this country today. Unemployment, brought about originally by the buyers' strike and inadequate credit facilities for foreign commerce, has lessened the buying power of the home market.

Foreign commerce is, then, not entirely foreign in its effect. Lack of sufficient markets for the surplus production of our industries and raw materials eventually affects adversely the cross-roads Texas or Alabama storekeeper and the big department store alike; one because cotton doesn't move, the other because unemployment, or restricted employment, means limited buying.

Aid to "Business as Usual."
With the period of liquidation and deflation apparently nearing an end at home, the impetus and quickened demand afforded by a foreign outlet would stabilize conditions without some of the price evils of the before-deflation period. The financing of these foreign credits would be by debentures, secured by collateral taken from the foreign customer, and sold to the American people. To obtain this capital from sources not now affected or interested in financing so as to avoid disrupting present banking arrangements, the corporation will encourage saving and economy generally by offering a safe investment to those 17,000,000 people who invested in Liberty Bonds. People thus engaged working in saving and investing will not be susceptible to the sky-high prices of post-armistice days.

Increased foreign trading may tend to raise the price of agricultural products here by opening up foreign demands; but the effect on manufactured product, while stabilizing, would not be a cause for a higher market, but an incentive to greater production.

DON'T NEGLECT A COLD—TURPO WILL CHASE IT OVERNIGHT

This Preparation, Made of Turpentine, Menthol and Camphor, Skillfully Combined in Salve or Ointment Form, Gives Immediate Relief for All Cold Troubles and Congestions.

During the past severe winter, when colds and the serious illnesses resulting from the neglect of colds were so prevalent, Turpo, the Turpentine Ointment, protected thousands of homes right in your neighborhood. It is a clear ointment or salve, in which is skillfully combined distilled Turpentine, Camphor and Menthol—remedies known to every doctor and druggist for their value in the treatment of colds and other ills.

Applied externally, Turpo carries the curative properties of these well-known remedies right through the skin to the root of the trouble, affording immediate relief in all colds and congestions. By checking a cold in its early stages Turpo prevents its developing into something more serious, and acts as an antiseptic and healing agent in the nose, throat and air passages.

Mothers find Turpo especially valuable to check children's colds at the very beginning—in this way keeping the youngsters healthy and free from severe colds, croup, tonsillitis and other troubles, all through the winter.

Turpo is a recognized household remedy—clean looking, pleasant smelling. It does not stain the clothing or blister the skin. Doctors recommend it because they realize its value in preventing slight colds developing into serious illnesses. No household medicine cabinet should be without a jar of Turpo. It is sold by all druggists in white opal jars with the orange and black label, at 30c and 60c. Your money will be cheerfully refunded if you are not satisfied.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

A Dirt-Road Man.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
I want to tell the people some facts. There is no reason in asserting that hard-surfaced roads should be attempted in the counties of the State, for the reason it would bankrupt the farmers. To illustrate: Take Macon County. We may assume that there are at least 1500 miles of established roads in that county. At the present cost of materials and labor it would cost at least $37,500,000. The lands of the county are assessed at less than $5,000,000. If they are worth four times the assessed value, or $20,000,000, yet, if sold, would not pay the cost of hard-surfacing the roads.

Of course, someone is ready to say, the demand for hard-surfacing the roads don't mean all public roads, but only a road here and there from time to time. Well, that would not be right unless we put the cost only upon the citizens whose such roads would benefit. And this would not be practicable.

There is but one common-sense plan to be adopted, and that is to repeal the State Highway Road Commission law and authorize the counties, by their County Courts, to raise the money and enter upon a gradual plan of perfecting our dirt roads, and a system of appointing men to draw and roll these roads day by day, and paying them cash therefor. This narrow-minded and unjust idea of expecting the farmers to do this work without pay should be abandoned. Why should a farmer do this for the town people, and town people pay nothing?

I have taken an active part against the proposed $50,000,000 road bond scheme because I saw in it a great burden upon the farmers of the State and not a mile of road of any value to at least 90 per cent of them.

I am for good dirt roads.
WEB. M. RUBEY.

L. B. Discovered.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
I know the solution of the entire street car controversy between Edward H. Hingst and the vox populi of Lindenwood. As long as the U. R. continues to fill up the sunken gardens of our ward politicians they (the U. R.) will never be compelled to run the car line out to within our reach. I'll bet L. B. is a precinct leader or something.

JOHN HALLOWELL.

Beware the Idol!

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
We read much of the Great Britain desiring friendly relations with America, but what is she doing to promote those friendly relations? In the first place, she wants everything her own way. She does not want the United States to have as large a navy as hers. She would like to cancel her war debt to us. She would like further loans from us, so that she can keep up her war in Mesopotamia, India and Ireland, and murder the poor people like she did the Boers in South Africa. I say it is time for America to beware of England. She has shown very little appreciation of the ship we gave her when she admitted her back was to the wall in the war. Let her be just, then we will be friendly.

THOMAS COX.

One Adjective.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
However much we may have differed in the past with the opinions of the dramatic and music critic of our esteemed morning paper, we at all times have been in full accord in our translations into English of elemental French adjectives are peculiarly original, and to say the least, show a power of subtle deduction that might ordinarily elude the pedantic.

We refer particularly to the review of Sunday's Pop Symphony concert which appeared in Monday's paper, during which the critic asked: "Why not, in justice to the pretty girls of our far South side, have a valise entitled 'Les Jeunes Filles de Carondelet' for the benefit of the unscrupulous purveyors of Symphony reviews, our critic translates the above French sentence, 'The Pretty Girls of Carondelet!'"

Of course, the pedant will insist that the French word jeunes means young, and is invariably used as such, but original spirits have always had to bear the disapproval of the uncompromisingly exact. Furthermore, credit must be given here for the ready perception which realized that youth and beauty walk through the pages of literature hand in hand, and so the exchange of the words here is not a liberty so much as it is an imaginative deviation from the painfully literal. This is in keeping with the spirit of modern poetry, painting and music, and may verge a Renaissance in prose in the field of criticism.

After all, to quote Swedenborg, why not "when in Rome be a Romeo."

Applauds "Dernier Cri."

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
"Dernier Cri," defending present fashions in a recent letter, says that she and her sisters at large should not be required to "hide their little under a bushel of rakes and draperies."
Well, as far as I can see, nothing can be said against it.
More candor to her.

THE MAYOR AND THE RIVER.

Mayor Kiel is quoted by the Globe-Democrat as saying in his speech to the Women's Club of the Twenty-fourth Ward that eight years ago when he was elected Mayor, no one ever thought of the Mississippi as a large transportation factor, and then pictured what has been accomplished since. "We have municipal docks," he said, "and we have barges and towboats carrying thousands of tons of freight from east to St. Louis daily."

The inference from this statement is that the Mayor discovered the Mississippi River as a transportation factor and that all that has been done to develop it was in some way due to the beneficent direction of his administration.

We give Mayor Kiel and his administration full credit for co-operation with the forces working for the development of river transportation, but we cannot concede that he discovered the Mississippi or initiated or directed the movement for its development for transportation purposes. The Mayor did not initiate the movement for a municipal dock. It came under pressure of a heavy demand for terminal facilities for barge lines, and particularly by reason of the condition of Government co-operation in operating a barge line to supplement rail transportation which was inadequate for business.

The first specific demand, after a long discussion, for a municipal dock to handle rail and river traffic came in 1915 from the Mississippi Valley Waterways Association, through James E. Smith, in response to a statement from the authorities in Washington that in order to get the Government to appropriate $7,000,000 for barge equipment it would be necessary for the city of St. Louis to provide dock terminals. The Mayor or at first said there were no funds available, but under pressure of insistent demand funds were found and the work was begun. On Nov. 16, 1915, referring to the statement of President Barnard of the Inland Navigation Co. that he could not operate a barge line without terminal facilities, the Post-Dispatch, under the headline, "When Will St. Louis Awaken?" urged the construction of a modern municipal dock. "The city must have," we said, "at least a usable wharf and shed with wagon and rail connections. It should have modern facilities for loading and unloading barges."

The result of this campaign was the beginning of a municipal dock.

The dock, however, was not completed. The work lagged; not a single unit was ready for service in 1918, when the great campaign for the building and operation of a Government barge line to relieve the railroad congestion of the war was undertaken under the direction of the Waterways Association and with the united support of the press and representatives of every interest in the Mississippi Valley, and every Congressman from the valley. We shall not recite the story of that tremendous campaign, which resulted in Secretary McAdoo taking over the development of river transportation for the Government and in the conditions which the Mayor painted so glowingly. But we quote part of an editorial from the Post-Dispatch of July 19, 1918, which shows what the city hall was not doing in preparation for traffic:

Is the municipal wharf an example of the way the city hall handles important projects from which an active public attention is temporarily withdrawn?

The municipal wharf was the center of a tremendous interest when the contract for its construction was let, Nov. 26, 1916. The moment it was let, the city hall ceased to be interested in it. It was created by measure for putting the river in service right have come at almost any time since that date. As it happened that moment was delayed by various circumstances until the present, but it discloses that this vital essential in making St. Louis the beneficiary of ambitious river plans is still uncompleted. Nineteen months after the letting of the contract and nearly two months after the date specified in the instrument for turning the finished terminal over to the city, we are told that the entire improvement cannot be made ready for use until next spring. Even to place one unit of the terminal in service will require 40 days, which is 60 days too much. If the city hall presses the work with as little energy as in the past, will that 60 days be expanded into 90 days or six months?

Under pressure of necessity and another campaign by the representatives of the Waterways Association and the co-operation of the Mayor, the Municipal Assembly appropriated $300,000 and the work of dock building was resumed. But St. Louis has not yet done half that is necessary to the full development of river traffic.

The general campaign for the use of the Mississippi is an old story, beginning with the decline of river traffic and carried on persistently by the Post-Dispatch and leading men in this city and in the valley. For a generation there have been organizations and special campaigns. The Post-Dispatch, in 1905, started a campaign for the appropriation of $1,000,000,000 to make a deep channel. The Business Men's League pushed the campaign for "14 feet through the valley." Boat and barge lines have been projected and built and have failed. The war created an opportunity which was seized and utilized. The Mayor came into it only through the necessity of the dock. He approved the dock project and helped to put it through, but the story of the dock does not prove his administration with laurel. It is a story of official hesitation and delay under persistent hammering of citizens and organizations and newspapers determined to realize for St. Louis the benefit of river transportation.

The blatant Mr. Blanton of Texas may now be sure that a lie, even in Mr. Burleson's mail, will find you out.

GIVE THE LEGISLATURE A CHANCE.

St. Louis and Kansas City organizations that are demanding a moving picture censorship have insisted they would fight it out on the floor in the event of an adverse committee report on their bill. Such a report has been made by the House Committee on Criminal Jurisprudence, but it is to be hoped the advocates of the measure will not carry out their threat.

The Legislature has a lot of vitally important work to do, as Gov. Hyde, in his special message, has outlined. Very little time remains in which to do it. That time should not be encroached upon by lesser matters. It may be charged that the Legislature has idled away precious days, but, even so, that would not justify conscientious citizens in jeopardizing their liberties.

We do not suppose that its most earnest supporters will contend that a moving-picture censorship is as important as that the children of Missouri shall have adequate schools, or that taxes shall be reduced, or that property shall be honestly assessed.

The list of the State's imperative needs is long. Those needs cannot be met if enterprises of less pith and moment are to be urged.

Under the circumstances it would be well to give the Legislature a chance to do what ought to be done. Missouri can get along for at least two more years with its present moving-picture censorship—namely, the public's option to stay away from screen shows.

THE WAR LOANS.

Official, financial and commercial opinion in Europe, according to an American newspaper man who has canvassed the situation, is that the allies will never pay the war loans made by the United States. A possible exception, it is conceded, is Great Britain, but even in that case payment is regarded as possible rather than certain.

In taking this position Europe, it is explained, must not be accused of repudiation; it is not a matter of choice. Europe, we are asked to believe, cannot pay. The indebtedness is simply beyond her capacity.

The total of these loans is the stupendous sum of $9,466,000,000. Great Britain was the largest borrower, her indebtedness being $4,196,000,000. France came second, with $2,968,000,000, and Italy third, with $1,631,000,000. The balance is apportioned among Belgium, Russia, Czechoslovakia, Rumania and Greece. The Belgian and Russian account, respectively $249,000,000 and $187,000,000, would have been transactions of magnitude in international finance before the war, but are now relegated almost to miscellaneous items. Such is the result of the upheaval which, as Frank A. Vanderlip put it, compelled bankers to "think in billions."

Europe, it appears, is aware that we may misunderstand her attitude, and, accordingly, is hoping that Mr. Harding will choose his Ambassadors from among America's greatest business men. Such men, it is believed, with their experience and training, will realize how impossible it is for Europe to discharge those obligations and will become advocates of cancellation.

It is familiar knowledge, of course, that some of our ablest financiers have already been won to that policy. But public sentiment, as far as it has expressed itself, is belligerently against cancellation, and a political party that would put that word into its platform would likely find election day a dire fate. It may, however, be confidently stated that the American people do not expect and will not expect a prompt settlement. We know Europe's plight. It is known that this money was spent in the United States, for high-priced goods which were made out of high-priced raw materials, at high-priced labor. And while the sentiment that our allies had for three years fought our battles cannot be entered into ledger, it is an "imponderable" that, together with the actual facts, must weigh heavily with us on the side of patience and liberal discounts—perhaps in time substantial concessions to the needy.

UNDER ORDERS.

Senator Moses, Republican protectionist of New Hampshire, challenged any supporter of the Fordney emergency tariff bill to deny that the measure was "unscientific and designed to fool the farmer rather than aid him." "Nobody can defend it," he thundered, "for it is indefensible."

But why was it necessary for anybody to defend it? Was it not on the program of an organized minority, and had not order gone abroad from that minority to certain Congressmen within its reach that their vote was required in support of the bill? Everybody knows that Senator Moses was right. But who that has not the courage to oppose an organized minority would be so foolish as to argue with one?

The musical comedy is gaining caste. From an amusement of the T. B. M. it has become the diversion of a President.

THE MONTHLY FREIGHTFULNESS.

In a competition of carelessness as shown by street accidents in St. Louis for January, the reckless drivers carry off first honors, with a score of 380 points out of a possible 638. From Jan. 1 up to the middle of February the deaths by automobile, responsibility for which is to be determined by the courts, numbered 15.

If these ratios continue, there are 15 people alive and healthy in St. Louis today who are doomed to die in the next 45 days from automobile accidents and scores, if not hundreds, who are to be injured within the month. This thought ought to give pause to the careless inclinations of possible victims and to those drivers who earnestly desire to have no human being's blood on their hands.

A limited number of traffic accidents, however, are unavoidable where traffic has outgrown the capacity of the streets. The most important significance of street accident liability from the standpoint of the public is the crying need of adequate passenger transportation facilities, overhead or underground, between the business and residence districts.

Penrose and Smoot are the Senate's Republican conferees on the tariff bill. The shades of 1912 again inhabit the flesh.

Bathrooms and Progress.

It seems that the bathtub may be a measure of civilization and progress. In the classical days of Greece-Roman grandeur, bathing was a fine art, and its rites were performed amid luxurious surroundings. But when the world reeled backward into the chaos of the Dark Ages, the refinements of the bath, with its perfume and anointings, passed out of vogue. Pious hermits, devoted to mystic contemplation, gave slight care to the perishable body. The rabble has been cynically said to have established the bath. Cleanliness and sanitation received scant recognition from either public or private persons. The world was ravaged by plague and pestilence.

Finally, inspired by the discoveries of science, governments began to promulgate and enforce sanitary regulations. As stated in 12 R. C. L. 1264: "The health of the people has long been recognized as an economic asset and a social blessing. It was a subject of ancient literature and philosophy, and never, perhaps, has civilization been oblivious to its importance. Yet it has remained for our own times, which might be styled the age of conservation, to take practical cognizance of the matter. As our population has increased and our civilization has become more complex, there has been a steady tendency toward a code of rules to guard against illness, disease and pestilence. Health officers and boards have been appointed for the purpose of devising and enforcing sanitary measures, and there has been much litigation in respect of particular matters affecting health."

The first bathtub in the United States," records a writer in the Omaha Bee, "was built in Cincinnati, and installed in a home there in 1842. It was made of mahogany, lined with sheet lead, and was proudly exhibited by its owner at a Christmas party. Next day it was denounced in the Cincinnati papers as a luxurious, undemocratic vanity. Then came the medical men and declared it a menace to health. In 1843 Philadelphia tried to prohibit bathing between Nov. 1 and March 15, by ordinance. In 1845 Boston made bathing unlawful except when prescribed by a physician. Virginia taxed bathtubs $50 a year. President Fillmore installed the first one ever in the White House. "These things seem incredible in an age when transient hotel accommodations include a bathroom, but sanitation is a recent development.

A Southern Ohio lawyer went to Columbus a few years ago, and when he registered at the hotel the clerk asked him if he wanted a room with bath. The guest thoughtfully rubbed the stubble on his chin, and replied: "No, I'll be home by Saturday." A similar story is told of a newly rich lady who was showing a friend of her days of poverty the very elaborate bathroom in her new home. It was a stinging hot August night. "Let how you must enjoy that tub!" she exclaimed. "Indeed I do," was the response; "I can hardly wait for Saturday night to come."

To these may be added the incident of the man who was persuaded to order a bathtub during the heat of August, but refused to accept a delayed October shipment on the ground that the article was now of no use to him, "since the bathing season was over."

It is stated that the senatorial baths at Washington, which of recent years have been undeveloped and deserted, are again to be put to use. Perhaps our wearers of the toga will lead the way in a revival of the best classical traditions. Legislation making bathing compulsory has not been suggested, probably because Americans have voluntarily shown themselves to be reasonably civilized in this regard. The thousands who throng the bathing beaches are evidently not in sympathy with the man who thanked God he had never insulted his skin by putting cold water on it, still less would they sympathize with the unkempt vagrant, who misunderstood his sentence of 30 days to be for "frugrancy."

It is encouraging to know that Mr. Wilson has recognized at least the physical layout of our school of two-story thinking. If not the contents, it is an occasion upon which our celebrated motto, "One thing at a time," stands us in excellent stead. As between our own identification of one-story thinkers as intellectual flats and the President's description of them as bungalows there is certainly not the difference of one story, and we assume that the school is established. We trust that Mr. Wilson is going to have time to come to it. We need each other. He needs Mr. Antwine's horse sense, and we all need his vision. You may say that Mr. Wilson did not get anywhere, but you will not find any sympathy for that view among our two-story thinkers. He let loose a force in the world that is knocking empire to smithereens. We have several times called attention to it. Francis Galton considered that human genius could be classified in only one way—that is, with respect to its influence upon civilization. He placed Socrates and Phidias in class A because he thought these men had influenced civilization more than anyone else who had ever lived. We think Mr. Wilson will rank pretty high in the alphabet before the world gets done with his self-determination. That is the greatest force at work on earth today, and unless our whole school of thought is down to earth, the moment it will prove in the end to have been the greatest political force ever let loose on earth. We are glad the President has discovered us. We have been looking at him all the time.

The MIRROR of PUBLIC OPINION

INTERPRETING THE CONSTITUTION.

HENRY CAMPBELL BLACK in North American Review. THERE has arisen a "doctrine of paramount necessity," which is in effect a belief that Congress under the guise of one or another of its admitted powers, can and should do anything which seems to be for the welfare of the whole country or which the separate states either cannot or will not unite in providing for by adequate legislation. And this is almost entirely the outgrowth of a changing popular conception of the scope and functions of the national Government. Inasmuch as it has modified the Constitution. The opportunity for the courts to exercise discretion, to adopt an attitude, to follow or retard a popular tendency, grows out of the fact that some of the most important of the constitutional limitations are expressed in general and indefinite language. If all were as precise as that which forbids the enactment of "bills of attainder and ex post facto laws," the courts would be held in rigid limits and any manifestation of a tendency or proclivity on their part would be next to impossible. But such phrases as "due process of law" and "the equal protection of the laws" are so nearly incapable of exact definition that the courts have steadily refused all invitations to mark out their limits. Moreover, there are implied limitations in the constitutions—implied in the sense that they are thought to be implicated in the broad terms of some of the individual clauses, of that they emerge as a generalization from some of the conclusions that have been definitely reached as to what those clauses do or do not mean. These implied limitations set up barriers to legislation which are called by various names as "justice," "reasonableness," "liberty," and "the inalienable rights," and these terms, although they also are hard to define, certainly do make a nearer approach to correspondence with a concrete idea. It is these implications or generalizations which now have weight with the courts. Left to deal at will with the broad and indefinite limitations of the constitutions, they have refused to give ear to the counsel of a dry literalism. Instead, they are trying to solve their problem by digging out the living meaning of such constitutional declarations, in the endeavor thus to arrive at norms and standards which shall serve the practical purposes of contemporary life.

PROGRESSIVE EDUCATION.

STANWOOD COBB in Atlantic Monthly. THE physical development of the child is considered by Marietta L. Johnson, one of the pioneers of progressive education, to take precedence over the intellectual development up to the age of ten. In all progressive schools the freedom of movement already described, the use of games and rhythmic expression and manual work, and exercise in gymnasium or on the playground, provide ample for the normal, healthy development of the child's body. Progressive education pays much more attention to the emotions than does ordinary education, both in watching carefully the emotional reaction of the child to its school work and in providing emotional outlet and emotional training by use of competitive games in place of the formal recitation, by story telling, rhythmic expression and dramatization. Instead of assigning the parts in a play to those children naturally possessed of dramatic ability, the progressive educator seeks in the course of the year to give all the children an opportunity to act, and through acting to find emotional expression and a cure for self-consciousness and shyness. The aesthetic qualities are developed, not only by the ordinary use of music and art, but also by craft work, which holds a large place in a progressive curriculum and furnishes the most popular hour of the day with the children. In the acting of dramas and pageants also, the aesthetic sense is developed.

Harry B. Hawes Also Proposes Special Committee to Draft Bills Before the Extra Session.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON, CITY, Feb. 18.—The appointment of a joint committee of the Senate and House to visit other states in the interval between the regular and special sessions of the Legislature to investigate and report on road construction was jointly suggested by advocates of a system of hard roads for Missouri and the advocates of dirt roads at a dinner given by Lieutenant-Governor Lloyd to members of the Legislature at the Central Hotel last night.

The dinner was arranged at the suggestion of Maj. Harry B. Hawes, president of the Missouri Good Roads Federation, as the one occasion at which a State road program should be discussed before members of the Legislature, prior to the adjournment of the regular session.

Arguments for a State-wide hard road system, designed with regard to the interests of the State as a whole, were presented by Hawes and by M. V. Carroll of Sedalia, secretary of the Good Roads Federation.

Two Favor Dirt Roads.
Arguments for the building of roads with sole regard for the community purposes, the spreading out of all the dirt roads of the State, were presented by William H. H. of Columbia, president of the Missouri Farmers' Association, and J. A. Hudson, of Columbia, also representing the Farmers' Association.

The Hawes-Carroll argument was based upon the contention that with the funds which will be available during the next 10 years, it will be possible to construct 6000 miles of hard-surfaced roads, extending into every county of the State and comprising with the letter and the spirit of the constitutional amendment regarding the distribution of the fund to all the counties.

The Hirth-Hudson argument was upon the contention that the farmer is interested solely in having roads over which he can reach his market, and that it is better to give all the farmers as good dirt roads as is possible with the money available, than to have a few main hard-surfaced roads through the State, while the rest of the farmers who do not live on these main roads, will continue "in the mud."

"Hard Roads a Ruse," Hirth declared that the farmers of Missouri know "that for 100 years at least they will have to use dirt roads and that hard-surfaced roads for a long time will be but a ruse."

Hawes, in opening the discussion, pointed out that the $60,000,000 of State bonds authorized by the voters in 1910, and that, instead of the proposition being carried by the large cities, it received a majority vote in more than 60 counties outside the large cities.

While the bond issue was only $60,000,000, he said, the State will have $100,000,000 to spend on roads during the next 10 years, through an addition of $20,000,000 expected from Federal aid and $15,000,000 which already has been provided for by local communities in conjunction with Federal and State aid.

Though he touched only generally upon the benefits to be derived from road building, Hawes, in his opening remarks, said that in the last 10 years 37 Missouri counties had been carried out road-building programs.

Arguments of Hawes.

He showed the argument somewhat from the standpoint of the farmer, that the hard-surfaced road program contemplated the building of "peacock lanes" between St. Louis and Kansas City for the sole benefit of tourists and a small number of people that the St. Louis terminus of State roads has already been provided for a distance of 22 miles outside of St. Louis by a local bond issue in St. Louis County.

"Road building is an exact science," he said. "The kind of a road you must have depends upon the traffic demands. The traffic demands increase as a road approaches a center of population. The hard-surfaced roads would be used by the people of the local communities through which they travel. I venture to say there would not be 1000

TEARS FOR "POOR FARMER," VIRTUALLY NO TANGIBLE AID, IS CONGRESS' RECORD

Encomiums for Husbandmen Fill Pages of Session, but List of Achievements in Their Behalf Is Virtually Blank.

By the Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18.—Tears for the plight of the farmers fill the pages of the Congressional Record for this session, but the record of achievements in their behalf is a virtual blank and probably will remain so through adjournment. The ambitious and widely heralded program of relief measures has proved a "flicker."

Of all the bills advertised as being in the farmers' interest, only one has become law. That is the measure reviving the War Finance Corporation, which Congress passed against the advice of Secretary of the Treasury Houston and repassed over the President's veto. It was generally known at the time that the bill would do the farmers no good, and events have shown this to be the case. Farmers are not organized to take advantage of Government loans for financing exports. The measure benefits not them, but business corporations with ample facilities for obtaining loans in the regular commercial market.

The Fordney Tariff Gesture.
The Fordney emergency tariff bill, loaded down with amendments since the House passed it, has just been passed by the Senate and sent to conference. It was passed by the Senate in the face of assurances that the President would almost certainly veto it. Without these assurances, the bill might have failed; for among the Republicans were Senators who feared the effect of increased living costs that would flow from the bill, and who kept their protectionist records straight on the final vote only because they confidently expected a veto. Passage of the bill in the circumstances was a mere gesture. The hope in the Senate showed that it could not be passed over a veto.

The bill to regulate the packers has passed the Senate, but got into the House. The House in the Senate will be required to get it out of committee to the floor of the House and the chances are very slim that the rule will be forthcoming. Opponents of the bill are waiting for the President-elect Harding's telegram asking Congress to concentrate its efforts on getting all the through passengers a year between St. Louis and Kansas City. The beneficiaries would be the people all along the road who wanted to get to market. They would be used by the city people principally to send out into the country the things they had to buy.

Showing that the cost of hard-surfaced roads would be paid by the recipients from the automobile license. Hawes said it was "an unproved thing" and that the "big engineers were in as big a fog of doubt as the average layman."

He agreed with Hawes that there should be an equitable distribution of the bond issue money and that there should be no question that an amendment to the Constitution should be adopted, setting out that interest on the bonds should be paid from automobile license fees.

He also endorsed the proposal for a junketing committee to investigate and report on the proposed amendment to the Constitution. "To catapult as an involved question as this without preparation to clarify" would mean a long special session, and that there would be as many different opinions as there were members of the Legislature.

To Discuss Suggestion.
Legislative leaders during the next few days will discuss the suggestion for the appointment of a junketing committee for road investigation in other states, and it is not improbable that within a few days a resolution authorizing the appointment of a committee will be introduced.

Hawes remained in Jefferson City today and expects before departing to discuss that and other road matters with the Governor, the Lieutenant-Governor and chairmen of the roads committees of the two houses, and four members of each of the Roads Committees to prepare a comprehensive road plan in the form of a bill to be submitted to the Legislature at the special session.

Preparatory to this, he suggested the special junketing committee to investigate road building in other states and to report back to the committee, which would prepare the bill from the information it gathered.

Hawes outlined the seven bills prepared by the Good Roads Federation, which were introduced last week. He said the federation was not committed to any of the four plans presented in the bills. There were the Malank plan, under which the Legislature would designate the roads to be built; another plan by which the Legislature would name them; another a committee of State officers to choose the roads, and the fourth a commission of four, appointed by the Governor, was to designate the roads, and the three other bills, he said, were general measures which would be required, whatever system of designating roads was decided upon.

For Nonpartisan Commission.

Hawes said he personally advocated the appointment of a nonpartisan highway commission by the Governor, with full power to conduct the work of the roads through which they travel. The bill providing for this commission stipulates that after its ap-

Idahoan Says He Will Not
"Abdicate" His Judgment

CLASHES ON ISSUE WITH M'CORMICK

Asserts That Financial Deficit Which America Faces
Is Greater Menace Than Any During the War.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18.—Emphatic notice was given in the Senate yesterday by Senator Borah, Republican, Idaho, that he would not "abdicate" his judgment to that of President Harding during the next four years.

Senator Borah's declaration came at the conclusion of a sharp clash with Senator McCormick, Republican, Illinois, over the question of disarmament. The latter had charged that the naval disarmament proposals of Senator Borah would "disarm" Mr. Harding in arranging for a general disarmament council.

Disclaiming any desire to embarrass Mr. Harding, Senator Borah, in replying, added:

"We have heard much criticism in the last few years of waiting for a nod from the White House. Congress has been accused of abdicating not only its judgment, but its functions. Let me say here, without disrespect to the President-elect, that I shall not abdicate my judgment any more during the next four years than I have during the past years."

"Deficit Great Menace."
Declaring that the Government was confronted by a deficit this year of $2,000,000,000, Senator Borah said this amounted to "a greater menace than anything the United States faced during the war."

Taxes and appropriations, appropriations and taxes! Have we lost our cunning for other measures? he demanded. "I say taxes and appropriations will not carry you, my public friends, out of this condition. There must be a suggestion somewhere. I have had the temerity to submit two proposals, and no where have they met with favor. I will not in with anything. But what is the program? I ask for something. I have ceased to be patient with the whispering from the galleries into this Senate. 'Wait for Mr. Harding.' Something must be done."

Taking up the gauge thrown down by the Idaho Senator, Mr. McCormick attacked the suggestion of Senator Borah for disarmament conferences between the United States and Great Britain and Japan and for suspension of the American naval building program.

Borah Suggestions Criticized.
"The Senator seeks," said McCormick, "to have America pause in her labors for her own defense; to substitute for tried and proven engines of war others of which the value is unknown, and to have the President invite other naval Powers to a conference in disarmament, while Japan continues to do so and while the British force is twice as powerful as the American."

Referring to the British and American Admirals named by Senator Borah recently as experts who believed capital ships to be obsolete, Senator McCormick said the superiority of capital ships was challenged by "the literary Admirals and my friend, the great Senator from Idaho."

Sensor Borah, responding, said that he had not advanced any "prophecy" that the United States be disarmed, but merely ventured to suggest that he suspend for a little while to ascertain whether certain types of vessels it is proposed to construct are effective to make a modern navy."

Repplies to McCormick.
Replying to Senator McCormick's charge that his course would "disarm" Mr. Harding's disarmament efforts, Senator Borah said he had no such desire and added that he would not "abdicate" his judgment to the President's.

"How Congress, in expressing its opinion on a matter which concerns Congress alone, can embarrass the President I cannot understand," said Borah.

"Much mystery surrounds this 'embarrassment' that I am wholly unable to comprehend. We have heard much criticism in the last few years of waiting for a nod from the Value of Intangible Assets.

SENATORS HELD IT EXEMPTED BREWERS

Ruling, Which Was Declared Unfair, States Burden of Proof of Loss Is Upon Taxpayer.

the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18.—The Post-Dispatch correspondent obtained today a copy of the ruling of the Treasury Department on which Senators Smoot and Frelinghuysen based their assertions in the Senate yesterday that the department was granting tax exemptions to brewers, distillers and liquor dealers on account of "obsolescence" of their property.

This ruling, in the form of an opinion by the Committee on Appeals and Review of the Internal Revenue Bureau sets forth several methods of determining the value of intangible assets such as good will, trade marks and trade names.

"Where deduction is claimed for obsolescence or loss of good will or trade marks," the opinion states, "the burden of proof is primarily upon the taxpayer to show the value of such good will or trade marks on March 1, 1913. Of course, if good will or trade marks have been acquired for a price, the value of such good will or trade marks will be determined by the amount of cash or value of other considerations paid for them. If no deduction will be allowed for the value of good will or trade marks built up by the taxpayer since March 1, 1913."

Suggestions for Checks on Validity.
The following suggestions are made therefore merely as suggestions for checks upon the soundness and validity of the taxpayers' claims. No obsolescence or loss of good will or trade marks should be allowed except in case of actual disposition of the asset or abandonment of the business.

In the first place, it is recognized that in numerous instances it has been the practice of distillers and wholesale liquor dealers to put out under well known and popular brands only so-called goods as could be marketed without affecting the established market price thereof and to sell other goods of the same identical manufacture, age and character under other brands or under the brand at all at figures very much below those which the well known brands commanded.

In such cases the difference between the price at which whiskey is sold under the well known brand and also under another brand name, or under no brand, multiplied by the number of units sold during a given period, gives an approximate value of the amount of profit attributable to that brand during that year, and where this practice is continued for a long enough period, the value of the brand is fairly well established.

Compare Business and Profits.
Another method is to compare the volume of business done under the trade mark or brand under consideration and profits made or by the business whose good will is under consideration, with the similar volume of business and profit made in other cases where good will or trade marks have been actually sold for cash, recognizing as the value of the first the same proportion of the selling price of the second as the profits of the first attributable to brands or good will is of the similar profits of the second.

The third method and possibly the one which will most frequently have to be applied as a check in the absence of data necessary for the application of the preceding ones is to allow out of average earnings over a period of years prior to March 1, 1913, preferably not less than five years, a return of ten per cent upon such tangible assets for the period. The surplus earnings will then be the average amount available for return upon the value of the intangible assets and it is the opinion of the committee that this return should be capitalized upon the basis of not more than five per cent, that is to say, five times the amount available as return from intangibles should be the value of the intangibles.

In view of the hazards of the

Glimpses of the Industrial Situation in Italy; the Recent Socialists' Convention

Session Described in Which Characteristics of Race Are Brought Out Pointedly—Stormy Scenes Typical, With People Analytical and Individualistic.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

ROME, Jan. 25.—The recent congress of the Italian Socialists at Leghorn has ended with a split in the party. With about a third of the membership, the Communists have seceded in favor of Moscow. The papers have reported much bad language and general disorder, and the public sees a weakening of the Socialist party.

A bill is now before the Chamber of Deputies to require that workmen shall be represented in the administration of all industries and furthermore that workmen be permitted to study an industry from raw material to finished product, having access to all books, reports, plans, etc. It is unlikely that this will be enacted in toto, but "we can wait," added Baldesi, recalled this was the way of the ancient Romans when the plebeians marched out of the city and sat down on the Palatine Hill, and waited until the Conscrip Fathers came and granted their demands.

Not a New Movement.
"This is not a new movement," Baldesi reminded me. "Of 6000 municipalities in Italy, more than 2000 now have Socialist-Labor government. In the Chamber of Deputies of a total of 508 seats, the Socialists now hold 156.

"Remember, too," Baldesi continued, "that Italy is dependent on other countries for raw materials. She could easily be starved out in case of revolution. Russia is too much concerned with her own affairs to give help now; Austria and Hungary are too impoverished; France is not interested. Italy is very poor as a result of the war. We cannot buy what we need with the rate of exchange against us; a pair of shoes costs the workingman three days' labor; we are still eating black bread."

No Unemployment in Italy.
I inquired about unemployment. There is none in Italy. In this respect the Italian situation is similar to Italy's advantage. In spite of the high cost of imported raw materials, her product can still be purchased comparatively reasonably. At this moment England can buy more than twice as much raw material from America. Furthermore, Italy is now forced to take stock of all her resources and develop them to the limit. For example, the prohibition of import coal has forced Italy to work her long-neglected lignite mines. But other causes are operating to save unemployment, as Baldesi suggested.

Co-operative Industry has grown rapidly in Italy and has been expanded in some cases to meet unemployment. I visited a co-operative glass bottle factory, where the workers have been put on a six-hour day (of which they actually work five hours and 20 minutes). With the result that total output has been increased and individual output only slightly decreased. The six-hour day would have come eventually under other conditions. I was told, because of the excessive price of the blowers' work, the price of the blowers' work was reduced. Between these leaders were many others, each representing a fine shade of socialist doctrine.

Serrati produced documentary evidence to begin his Moscow constitution. In tolerance with Italy, showing how concessions had been made to parties of other countries, especially to France. Grazzetti, a professor of philosophy and in appearance very like Socrates, set forth the Communist view in brilliant dialectics, while Bombacci, the torch-bearer of the left, made a fervent appeal for Moscow with all the fire of a Hebrew prophet. Between these leaders were many others, each representing a fine shade of socialist doctrine.

The congress was an interesting demonstration of Italian psychology, which must be considered if the situation be understood. The Italian like Socrates, floor packed solidly, in a group of alert faces, the speaker begins "Confermo" (I confirm), gestulating, hissing and soon everyone who is not making a disturbance is trying to quell one, while the chairman rings a dinner bell, calling "silenzio."

The speaker is calm because this is a typical response; perhaps he lights a cigarette and waits for order, which always comes eventually, with everyone smiling and some even patting the enemy's back or kissing his cheek. Such is the essential good humor and good-naturedness of the Italians. On close analysis this disorder represents not mob response, but individual thinking, a fine matching of values. The Italians are inherently analytical. We find, therefore, not two or three clear cut divisions in a party, but a great variety of shades of opinion, forming rather loosely defined groups. Social individualism in Italy is not in spite of individualism, but rather because of it. The Socialist party has split with a majority against Moscow, but not with irreconcilable bitterness toward each other. Events may prove that fundamental unity is not lost.

Italy Has No Unemployment Problem to Solve.

Gino Baldesi, secretary of the Italian General Confederation of Labor and a leader in the Socialist Reformist movement, shrugged his shoulders and smiled indulgently when I called at his office in Milan and asked him if revolution in Italy

RAIL EXECUTIVES MEET TO DISCUSS WAGE AGREEMENTS

Abrogation of All Contracts With Shop Workers Entered Into Under Government Control Demanded.

DECLARED NOT TO BE BINDING NOW

Proposal First Made on Jan.
31 and Delay in Getting Decision Chief Reason for Calling the Meeting.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Feb. 18.—Members of the Association of Railway Executives assembled here today to hear a report from the association's Labor Committee on the proposal to abrogate shop working agreements. For weeks a debate over the agreements has been waged before the Railroad Labor Board. W. W. Atterbury, chairman of the Labor Committee, told the board in presenting the proposal on Jan. 31 that immediate action was necessary to prevent many roads from falling into critical financial difficulties.

T. De Witt Cuyler, chairman of the association in calling today's meeting, said it was to consider "the delay of the Railroad Labor Board in reaching a decision."

When the sessions of the board were adjourned last Monday, Monday, B. M. Jewell, president of the railway employees' department of the American Federation of Labor, was presenting counter proposals to the Atterbury application. He asked for delay until March 14 for presentation of the employees' proposals, or an arrangement for a conference between executives and employees to effect an amicable settlement of the shop agreement controversy. The board did not indicate its decision on either proposal.

The executives, it is understood, read the shop agreements under debate before the Railroad Labor Board as not binding on them, since they were entered into by the shop and clerical employees and the Director-General of Railroads under Federal control. They are said to regard the agreements as no longer obligatory upon them, since the expiration of Federal control and the Federal income guarantee period.

NEW LIQUOR RULES BASED ON RECENT DECISION

Regulations Have to Do With Liquors Taken From Bond Prior to Jan. 17, 1920.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Feb. 18.—Regulations have been issued by the Internal Revenue Bureau governing the transportation of liquor for beverage purposes in accordance with the recent decision of the Supreme Court on the question of intoxicants acquired before the advent of permanent prohibition, Jan. 17, 1920.

Such liquors, the regulations provide, may be moved by their owners from a place of storage to his private dwelling for the use of himself and family or guests entertained there. Permits for the transportation of lawfully acquired liquor, however, must be obtained from Federal prohibition directors. Liquor held in bond, however, may not be withdrawn for beverage purposes.

Liquors lawfully obtained before national prohibition, the regulations provide, may be received by the heirs of the deceased owner, who would have the same right of possession and transportation as the original owner.

All persons possessing lawfully acquired liquor in storage outside their dwellings are required by the regulations to make a report to the prohibition director of their State within 30 days, showing kind and quantity owned. No report is necessary covering liquor now held in a private dwelling. Liquor may not be removed or transported in violation of any State or Federal law making such removal or transportation illegal, the bureau ruled.

BALLOONIST FARRELL TESTIFIES

By the Associated Press.

ROCKAWAY, N. Y., Feb. 18.—Lieut. Stephen A. Farrell, the first to blow with Lieut. Walter Hinton at Mattson, Ontario, after his balloon adventure into Canada, testified yesterday before the naval board investigating the fatal crash. He could not remember clearly what had taken place, owing to his physical condition at the time. He admitted that just before the altercation he "heard swears" but could remember nothing beyond that. Hinton, he stated, had given him no cause for striking the blow.

He told Lieut. Kline, he testified, that if he had done anything wrong, he was sorry, and later apologized to Hinton.

MISSOURI HOUSE URGES PASSAGE OF NEWTON BILL

Resolution Memorializing Congress to Act on River Improvement Measure Adopted.

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 13.—A resolution introduced by Representative Morgan of Putnam County, majority floor leader, memorializing Congress to pass the Newton bill providing for completion of the upper Mississippi River and Missouri River improvements, was adopted by the House today. It will go to the Senate for passage there.

The resolution, which has been passed by the Legislatures of Wisconsin and Iowa, was promoted by the Upper Mississippi Waterways Association and was brought to Jefferson City by Sidney J. Roy of Hannibal, secretary of the association.

Attention is called in the resolution to the benefits which would be derived by the territory which is not on either of the rivers.

SENATOR BORAH TO CONTINUE FIGHT FOR DISARMAMENT

White House. Congress has been accused of abdication not only its judgment, but its functions.

"Let me say here, without disrespect to the President-elect," he continued, "that I shall not abdicate my judgment any more during the next four years than I have during the last eight."

Japan Discussed in House. Representative Miller, Republican, of Washington, in a speech in the House yesterday, said refusal of Japan to make any move toward disarmament until she has completed her battleship and cruiser program meant preparation by Japan for war.

"Unless the cool-headed statesmen and diplomats of Japan purge the demagogue, jingo and junkers that now appear to have the public eye and ear."

Urging the strengthening of Pacific Coast defenses, Representative Miller declared that, although "every day of the world we hear the rattle of the saber from across the Pacific," there was no possibility of war between the United States and Japan unless the latter made it.

"Japan's subjects, however," he added, "are undertaking and are colonizing ours. We shall reserve ourselves at whatever costs, the right to say who, when, where and how the alien shall come to us and settle among us."

The people of the Pacific Coast, Miller declared, "are not frightened nor are we timid."

Lloyd George Questioned on Proposed Armament Conference. By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Feb. 13.—Premier Lloyd George, questioned in the House of Commons yesterday as to whether the Government would take steps to approach the Washington and Tokyo Governments with a view to arranging a limitation of armaments, replied that the question was engaging the Government's constant attention, and it would be premature to make any statement now.

business the changes in popular tastes and the difficulties in preventing imitation or counterfeiting of popular brands affecting the sales of the genuine goods the committee is of the opinion that the figure given of 20 per cent return on intangibles is not unreasonable and it recommends that no higher figure than that be attached in any case to intangibles without a very clear and adequate showing that the value of the intangibles was in fact greater than would be reached by applying this formula.

"The foregoing is intended to apply particularly to businesses put out of existence by the prohibition law, but will be equally applicable as far as the third formula is concerned to other businesses of a more or less hazardous nature. In the case, however, of valuation of the goodwill of a business which consists of the manufacture or sale of standard articles of every day necessity not subject to violent fluctuations and where the hazard is not so great the committee is of the opinion that the figure for determination of the return on tangible assets might be reduced from 10 to 8 or 9 per cent and that the percentage for capitalization of the return upon intangibles might be reduced from 20 to 15 per cent.

Should Determine Net Earnings. "In any or all of the cases the effort should be to determine what net earnings a purchaser of a business on March 1, 1913, might reasonably have expected to receive from it and therefore a representative period should be used for the actual net earnings eliminating any year in which there were extraordinary factors affecting earnings either way. Also, in the case of the sale of good will of a going business the percentage rate of capitalization of earnings applicable to good will shown by the amount actually paid for the business should be used as a check against the determination of good will value as of March 1, 1913."

Commissioner of Internal Revenue Williams said that he was getting together data for a reply to the senatorial criticism.

FARMERS SEARCH FOR SLAYER OF TEACHERS

Adopted Daughter of Cleveland Couple Notified One of Murder Victims Was Her Sister.

By the Associated Press. CLEVELAND, Feb. 18.—No trace of the murderer of Miss Louise Wolf, 28 years old, principal of the Parma Heights High School, and Miss Mabel Foote, 24, a teacher, had been found when officers and a posse of 100 farmers resumed their search early today.

The two women were clubbed to death when on their way home from school late Wednesday, but their bodies were not discovered until yesterday morning when pupils on their way to school found them lying near a roadway, just outside Cleveland. The skulls of both women were fractured and their garments torn almost to shreds. Sappings from the thick woods which flank both sides of the road were used. One club had the dark hair of one of the teachers and the light hair of the other still clinging to it. The trampled condition of the ground—evidence of the desperate battle the women had made to save their lives.

FUNERAL OF FORMER JUDGE COLLIER TO BE HELD TOMORROW

Was Once on United States District Court Bench in Arizona.

The funeral of former Judge Needham C. Collier, 74 years old, of 5563 Clemens avenue, who died last night at his home of heart disease, will be held at 8:30 o'clock tomorrow morning at St. Rose's Catholic Church, Goodfellow and Maple avenues. Interment will be in Calvary cemetery. Judge Collier, who was a native of Georgia, was appointed to the bench of the United States District Court in New Mexico by President Grover Cleveland in 1898. In 1909 he retired and moved to St. Louis, and has since been engaged in the practice of law and writing text books and articles on law. He was at one time associated in the practice of law with William H. O'Brien and later with Alexander Robbins. He is survived by three daughters, Julia M., Mary C. and Vivienne R. Collier, and two sons, George E. and Charles W. Collier. His wife died about a year ago.

DEATH PENALTY FOR MURDER

Illinois Miner Fails to Sustain Plea of Self-Defense.

SPECIAL TO THE POST-DISPATCH. BENTON, Ill., Feb. 18.—A jury in the Franklin County Circuit Court at Benton returned a verdict at 11:20 last night finding John Savant, 20 years old, guilty of first degree murder and fixed his punishment at death. Savant killed Fritz Heick, 29, at Valler Jan. 2 last. Savant is a miner and Heick was a grocery clerk in the employment of Albert Savant, brother of the condemned man. Savant pleaded self-defense.

GLIMPSES OF THE INDUSTRIAL SITUATION IN ITALY TODAY

naids. "This strengthens our organization," he explained, "because these employees then realize that we can help them." I asked if he liked the system. "Oh, yes," was the quick response, "this way is more pleasant for us and for you." So it was. The atmosphere in that dining room was delightfully hospitable. The head waiter had the air of a host; the guests were receiving excellent service, not from just one waiter, but from the group. The new arrangement has produced a team work which makes for promptness and efficiency. At Leghorn in a large tourist hotel an attendant returned my 6-lire tip with the utmost courtesy, explaining that the service would be quite to my liking. Even Venice, notorious for gouging the tourist, I found the same situation. I might add in passing that the gondolier has not been touched by the new movement. He understands the exchange condition and has become a greater pirate than ever. Doubting ones are wondering if the "no tipping" system will not degenerate into a double hold-up. I do not think so. Fifteen per cent is a good sum extra for service on a total bill, more than guests are likely to give in tips on a solitary journey than a few days. The service is good because the employee has reason to make his hotel popular; and the guests are relieved from that despicable fawning and open hand.

Your Spring Suit Is Ready, Sir!

It is fresh from the tailoring department of the House of Kuppenheimer or from some other reputable maker. It represents the best value available in honestly made ready-for-service clothing, and it is priced as low, if not lower, than the present conditions justify.

THE impression prevails among the industry, that clothing prices are now lower than they will be later. The manufacturer and the merchant have made an unusual effort to meet the ideas of the public regarding clothing prices. Conditions do not make it possible to offer clothes of high standard and quality at the same prices that prevailed in 1914—they are a little bit higher.

We can assure you of clothes values and clothes service that are as good as can be obtained.

GRAND JURY INDICTS MAN WHOSE AUTO KILLED WOMAN

Cadwell L. Bishop, 43 years old, of 3683 Delmar boulevard, district manager for an insurance company, was indicted by the grand jury yesterday on a charge of manslaughter. In his automobile he ran down and killed Mrs. Catherine Nickel, 49 years old, of 2129 Gravois avenue, at Virginia avenue and Osceola street, the night of Feb. 10. The maximum penalty is 10 years in the penitentiary.

Mrs. Nickel was about to board a street car when she was struck. Witnesses said Bishop had been driving alongside the street car and did not check his speed when the car approached the crossing, though several persons were waiting to board it. Bishop said his windshield was covered with snow and he did not notice that the street car was about to stop.

The grand jury refused to return an indictment against Louis Lieberich of 2013 W. 11th street, a chauffeur, whose automobile struck and killed Peter Boggianno of 3647 Blaine avenue, near Grand and Magnolia avenues, Jan. 2. It was said there was no evidence of carelessness on Lieberich's part and Boggianno was not on a street crossing.

NO INVITATION TO RUSSIA
Lloyd George Explains Why to House of Commons.

LONDON, Feb. 18.—Premier Lloyd George explained in the House of Commons yesterday why Russia will not be represented at the London conference. Replying to a question as to whether Russia had been invited to send a representative to the conference on the Turkish treaty, the Prime Minister said: "Russia, having foolishly declined an invitation to the conference of the allies in London last summer to settle all outstanding questions, because acceptance would have involved arresting the march of her invading armies in Poland, we do not propose to renew the invitation."

POLICE RAID O'LEARY PLACE
Thirty Arrested in Chicago Gambling House.

CHICAGO, Feb. 18.—Battering down steel doors with sledge hammers, the police yesterday raided Jim O'Leary's gambling house, which had been famous in Chicago for years. Although O'Leary's place was said to have operated for years, it always remained clear of raids and legal entanglements.

Thirty persons were arrested and several thousand dollars' worth of gambling paraphernalia was confiscated, according to the police.

MORE NURSES NEEDED IN FIGHT ON TUBERCULOSIS

Essary and a complete set of artificial teeth obtained. Two of the children were 10 per cent under weight, but not tuberculous. They were referred to and admitted into the Open Air School, where they are gaining satisfactorily and doing very well indeed.

Wide Scope for Work.
A boy in this same family had a contracted tendon, due to an old automobile accident. He was taken to an orthopedic clinic and later to a hospital, where an operation was performed, which gave him a 100 per cent efficient leg instead of a handicap that he might have carried through life. All of this was accomplished through the Public Health Nurse. No other agency existed with the time to bring about these changes, since it required much visiting and much teaching, and that in the home. This family knew furthermore all about the danger of tuberculosis and have now a sacred regard for the laws of health.

Of course, the co-operation of the private physician is needed. He must understand that the nurse is not making a diagnosis, or prescribing, or even discussing treatment, but is only doing what he has not the time to do. In most cities it has been definitely proven that the systematic visiting of a public health nurse will, in the end, increase the number of calls for the physician, because with the families of limited means the physician is usually not called unless sorely needed. The calling of a physician cannot be recommended by the physician, but may be recommended by the nurse. Hence, one of the first needs is a very intelligent understanding between the tuberculosis nurse and the physician.

Must Educate Public.
Much of the prejudice of the family regarding the nurse, is due to lack of understanding. This exists, if at all, before the nurse makes her first visit. Repeated visits bring about a mutual and helpful co-operation. No nurse should attempt to carry more than 100 families and be expected to know them well enough to do effective teaching. This should mean a large staff of principal nurses. We have in St. Louis well over about 1400 or 1500 deaths from tuberculosis and approximately 7000 persons infected with the disease. A nurse to every 100 would mean 70 nurses and the city of St. Louis now provides a staff of but 30, only a portion of their time being available for the tuberculosis work.

St. Louis deserves to be policed for health as well as for the protection of private property. To quote, in conclusion, from Herbert Hoover: "One of our great American problems is education. The most practical step yet evolved has been the creation of the community nurse, with the stimulus thus given to community interest in health. I see no more reason why our local governments should not support a staff of community nurses than that they should support a staff of policemen. Certainly such a staff will ultimately decrease the necessity for police."

THE POTATO

Professor Graham Lusk, of the Cornell University Medical School, reports the following:

A man partook of a diet of potatoes, with a little vegetable margarine, for nearly ten months;

And he not only remained healthy, but during the last three months performed severe mechanical work.

Such is the nutritive value of the potatoes so temptingly served at CHILDS.

Home Fried Potatoes—an important part of a well balanced meal.

Buy Oranges for Weight Juice Makes Them Heavy

The food and health values of oranges are in the juice. In buying these enticing and healthful fruits be guided by the weight. Juice makes oranges heavy. Therefore, the heavier they are, the better. According to Department of Agriculture investigations, orange juice contains more units of food-value than oysters, oatmeal gruel or beef juice. Medical authorities agree that the vitamins which science has found so essential to health are supplied in liberal quantity in the juice of ripe oranges.

Sealdsweet Oranges—Better Because Juicier

Sealdsweet oranges are better because juicier. The superiority and greater juice content of Sealdsweet oranges is proved by the heavier weight. Sealdsweet oranges will be at their best for the next three or four months—fully matured and weighty with juice.

Select oranges for weight to insure plenty of juice—and you will choose the Sealdsweet kind in preference to all others. Tell your fruit dealer that you want Sealdsweet oranges and expect him to supply them to you—he will do so if you insist.

Sealdsweet Grapefruit—Tune the Meal: Tone the System

Appetizing and delightful, Sealdsweet grapefruit are healthful themselves and assist the digestion of other foods. The larger the size, the better the fruit. True food-fruits, beneficial with every meal.

The bigger and better Sealdsweet grapefruit offered by the Florida groves when the crop is fully matured can be had for the rest of the winter and during the spring. Ask your dealer for them.

If Back Hurts Begin on Salts

Flush your Kidneys occasionally if you eat meat regularly.

No man or woman who eats meat regularly can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which clogs the kidney pores so they sluggishly filter or strain only part of the waste and poisons from the blood, then you get sick. Nearly all rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, constipation, dizziness, sleeplessness, bladder disorders come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any reliable pharmacy and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which all regular meat eaters should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and the blood pure, thereby avoiding serious kidney complications.

MAN, 65, DISARMS NEGRO ROBBER AND SHOOTS AT HIM

Holdup Man Says, "Please Don't Shoot," but Grocer Fires and Shatters $50 Plate Glass Window.

INTRUDER DROPS COAT AND FLEES

Meyer Gintel Runs to Door and Fires Three More Shots, but by That Time Negro Is Far on His Way.

When a negro pointed a revolver at him in his grocery at 3434 Walnut street at 7:30 o'clock last night, Meyer Gintel, instead of throwing up his hands as commanded, seized the revolver, wrested it from the negro and turned it on him.

"Please don't shoot," the negro implored, "I was only fooling." Gintel fired. The shot missed the negro and shattered a $50 plate-glass window in the front of the store. The negro leaped for the door. Gintel fired another shot. The negro dropped his overcoat. Gintel ran to the door and fired three more shots but the negro then was far on his way and escaped. Gintel is 65 years old.

Two robbers took $55.77 from a Kroger grocery at 2326 Cass avenue yesterday at 3 p. m. They had told William Chauvin, 3511 Linfield avenue, manager, that they were wire inspectors and had asked to be shown the way to the basement. When Chauvin showed them the cellar door, they ordered him to descend and looked him in. He remained there 20 minutes until released by customers who heard his pounding upon the door.

Hotel Manager Held Up. Nathan W. Fischmann, a hotel manager, was proceeding over Hamilton avenue at 11 a. m. toward his home at 5893 Highland avenue, when between Cote Brillante and Garfield avenues one of two men occupying an automobile alighted and held him up, taking $42, a check for $12 and a diamond ring valued at $150. Pierpont Miller of 4155 Burgen avenue reported that two men took $210 from him shortly after he alighted from a Cherokee car at Gravois avenue and Bates street.

The police discovered at daylight that the tailor shop of John Roth at 1726 Olive street had been entered by burglars who pried off iron bars protecting a rear door. Roth said that clothing and cloth valued at $2000 had been taken. A mail carrier found 13 bolts of cloth on a vacant lot at Seventeenth and Pine streets at 7 a. m. Roth identified the cloth, but said it was only a part of that taken, representing about $200.

Hyman Hyken, manager of the New York Store at 4201 Olive street, told the police after an inventory yesterday that burglars who entered the store Wednesday night obtained goods valued at about $550.

Women's Handbag Opened. Miss Sue Thompson of 2606 Palm street discovered at Broadway and Market street yesterday afternoon that her handbag had been opened and a purse containing $50 taken.

Kate Friedman of 4623 Washington boulevard also reported that her handbag had been opened and $14 in money and a watch and pendant valued at $110 had been taken.

Karl Voss of 4141A West Carter avenue reported that his pocket had been picked of $15 on a Sarah car at Pinney avenue by negroes who jostled him.

SONGS IN GERMAN TABOO

Paris Audience in Uproar and Singer Changes to French. Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch. PARIS, Feb. 13.—Through the French public is perfectly willing to listen to German music, the German language is still taboo, as a Dutch soprano learned to her cost Wednesday night at a concert at the Salle Gaveau. The singer, Marya Freund, a Hollander, who is married to a German, was the soloist at a concert, at which the orchestra was directed by Alfredo Casella.

A group of songs of Schubert was on the program with French titles and the audience expected she would give them in the same language. When, however, the soprano started to sing in German an uproar instantly arose with cries of "No Boche here" and "Sing French." Mme. Freund, undaunted, tried to continue, whereupon half the audience rose and fled out of the hall. Mme. Freund then sang a group of songs by Beethoven, as she did not know the French translation of the Schubert numbers. This quieted the protestors.

Death From Natural Causes. An inquest yesterday into the death at the Jewish Hospital Monday of Arthur F. Case, 27 years old, 1350 Ferguson avenue, showed that his death was the result of an internal disorder, and not of burns on the foot, which he suffered Jan. 26, at an iron plant where he had been employed. It had been reported that an infection from the burn caused his death. He was injured when molten steel splashed from a ladle.

DEMOCRATS LEAVE WAY OPEN FOR EARLY MEETING

Resolution Adopted Against Session Until "More Deliberate Opinion" Asks for a Call.

LOVE EXPECTED TO CONTINUE FIGHT

No Mention Made at Conference of Executive Committee of Retirement of Chairman White.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, Feb. 13. — Although the recent proposal of 57 members of the Democratic National Committee for a meeting of the body on March 1 had been voted down unanimously by the Executive Committee, the way still is open for an early meeting of the full committee if the members' deliberate opinion of its members it is desirable to call one. This opening was left by the committee in a resolution adopted at its meeting here yesterday with Chairman George White, in which it expressed the opinion, however, that no "immediate meeting of the national committee is necessary." This position was taken, it was said, in view of the action of the committee in arranging for future party activities.

Indications are not lacking, however, that the forces led by Thomas B. Love of Texas, who presented the petition from the 57 national committee members yesterday proposing a meeting for March 1, would leave no stone unturned to hold the petitioners to their original purpose of securing an early meeting of the full committee.

White's Retirement Unmentioned. Chairman White not only was upheld by the 16 members of the new Executive Committee in voting down as impracticable the proposal for a March 1 meeting, but his victory was enhanced by the fact that the question of his retirement was not broached in the committee's discussion.

The Executive Committee adopted a program for reorganization of the party, which White is understood to have suggested. This program provides for the appointment by the chairman of a subcommittee of five to devise means of liquidating the $160,000 indebtedness incurred in the last campaign and to prepare a budget of expenses for maintaining headquarters in Washington and for preparation by the chairman of a plan for the organization of a woman's bureau of the National Committee.

Presidential Plans Denied. Committeeman Love, who with Robert W. Woolley, former Interstate Commerce Commissioner and half a dozen other signers of the petition appeared before the committee, denied that he, or the 56 committee members signing the petition, were supporting any one man for the presidential nomination in 1924.

Among those who vigorously opposed favorable action on the Love petition were Homer S. Cummings and Senator Glass, national committeemen from Connecticut and Virginia, respectively, who said that while they favored a meeting of the National Committee in the near future as an abstract proposition, they were against the present movement, in view of the "false impressions" that such a meeting would be a slap at Chairman White. Cummings pleaded for harmony.

LIFE SENTENCE NOT SEVERE ENOUGH TO SATISFY JUDGE

Chicago Jurist Protests to Jury at Verdict in Case of 3 Negroes Charged With Killing.

By the Associated Press. CHICAGO, Feb. 13.—Life sentence for three negroes who are alleged to have shot and killed Herman Krokner while robbing his fur store was not severe enough to satisfy Judge Hugo Friend.

Descending from the bench last night when the jury brought in its verdict, he walked to the jury box and told the 12 men he "couldn't understand how you men could reach such a verdict in such a cold-blooded murder case."

"If ever there was a case calling for the death penalty this is the case," he went on. "Even the colored men in my neighborhood say these men should have been lynched." Krokner's widow added Counsel for the convicted men asked for a new trial, and W. S. Stewart, Assistant State's Attorney, said he would be glad to help them get it.

$500,000 TO MOVE GRAIN

Senator Kenyon Offers Bill to Aid Chinese Relief Program.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—An appropriation of $500,000 to cover the expense of carrying to China grain given by American farmers for the relief of famine sufferers in that country is proposed in a resolution introduced in the Senate by Senator Kenyon, Republican of Iowa.

It is the plan to use shipping board vessels to carry the grain and to man them with volunteers from the naval reserve, whose expenses would be paid out of the appropriation. The railway employees have agreed to carry the grain to the Pacific free of cost and elevator interests also have offered to assist in the movement without cost, Senator Kenyon said.

ON THE JOB EVERY DAY

Red-Blooded Men and Women Are Seldom Sick

WATCH YOUR BLOOD CONDITION

If You Look Pale, Feel Gloomy and Run-Down, Take Pepto-Mangan and Build Up

You see men and women who are never sick. They work hard, look robust, eat heartily and enjoy life. They have plenty of rich, red blood. That is why they are never ill. People who try to get along with weak, impoverished blood always have a struggle. They go from one sickness to another. Children the same way. If you keep your blood rich and red you'll enjoy full vigor. Disease has little chance to develop in healthy blood. As soon as you feel run-down take Pepto-Mangan for awhile. It will feed your blood with the ingredients needed to create a good supply of red corpuscles.

Pepto-Mangan is sold in both liquid and tablet form. Take either kind you prefer. They are alike in medicinal value. But be sure you get the genuine Pepto-Mangan—"Gude's." The full name, "Gude's Pepto-Mangan," should be on the package.

Mothers, Do This—

When the Children Cough, Rab Muterole on Throats and Chests

No telling how soon the symptoms may develop into croup, or worse. And then when you're glad you have a jar of Muterole at hand to give prompt, sure relief. It does not blister.

As first aid and a certain remedy, Muterole is excellent. Thousands of mothers know it. You should keep a jar in the house, ready for instant use. It is the remedy for adults, too. Relieves sore throat, bronchitis, laryngitis, croup, stiff neck, asthma, neuralgia, headache, congestion, pleurisy, rheumatism, lumbago, pains and aches of back or joints, sprains, sore muscles, chilblains, frost-bitten feet and colds of the chest (it often prevents pneumonia).

35c and 65c jars; hospital size $2.00

ALKALI IN SOAP BAD FOR THE HAIR

Soap should be used very carefully, if you want to keep your hair looking its best. Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle and ruins it.

The best thing for steady use is Mulsified coconut oil shampoo (which is pure and greaseless), and is better than anything else you can use.

One or two teaspoonfuls of Mulsified will cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, which rinses out easily, removing every particle of dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves the scalp soft, and the hair fine and silky, bright, lustrous, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get Mulsified coconut oil shampoo at any pharmacy. It's very cheap, and a few ounces will supply every member of the family for months. Be sure your druggist gives you Mulsified.

DIAMOND DYES

Garments or Draperies Never

Streak, Fade or have a "Dyed-Look"

Each package of "Diamond Dyes" contains directions so simple that it is fun for any woman to diamond-dye faded, plaided skirts, waists, dresses, coats, stockings, sweaters, draperies, coverings, everything.

Buy "Diamond Dyes"—no other kind—then perfect results are guaranteed. Tell druggist whether your material is wool or silk, or if it is cotton, linen, or a mixture, 16 rich colors.

AFTER EXPOSURE PREVENT COLDS

Natural Remedy Wards Off Influenza.

A simple cold opens the way to Influenza, Pneumonia and other dangerous ailments. Keep liver and kidneys active with the old, reliable, pure herb remedy, Schenck's Kidney and Liver Tonic. Make it and take it like ordinary tea. Get a 25c package from your druggist, and keep it handy—adv.

Smith Likely To Give Carpentier Serious Setback

French Champion May Find New York Middleweight a Tough Nut to Crack.

WELLING IS DUE SUNDAY

Advance Sale Indicates Big House When Chicagoan Faces Leonard Again.

By John E. Wray.

Dispatches carrying the news that Georges Carpentier is to meet the American middleweight, Jeff Smith, at Monte Carlo, March 31, the U. S. fighter to receive $35,000 for his "bit," has aroused some curiosity among casual followers of fisty affairs as to the identity and capabilities of the Frenchman's prospective opponent.

The prevailing idea seems to be that the bout will be a mere set-up for the Gallic marvel; but unless Smith has gone into hopeless decline, which will not be the case.

Smith, whose real name is Jerome Jeffords, is a boxer of high standing. He is not quite 30 years old and has been fighting since 1910. Carpentier, although three years younger than Smith, began fighting when he was an immature boy of 13, in 1907.

In his 11 years of ring career Smith has achieved quite a record, each twelve-month bracketing with enough knockouts to indicate that, besides his known cleverness, he carries a punch as well.

He has fought practically every middleweight in the game and has the unique record of being the only man to ever gain a decision over the late Les Darcy of Australia. Smith fought the famous Bushman in his own country twice. He gained a victory in five rounds the first time, the decision going as a knockout, although Darcy claimed a foul that was not allowed. On their next meeting Smith was disqualified in the second round for hitting Darcy low.

Flattened Young Ahearn. Smith knocked out the one-time marvel, Young Ahearn, in five rounds, and stopped, among others, Art Magill, Bandman Rice, Ercole de Balzac (a French "marvel"), Jack Hanlon, Billie Kramer, Dick Gilbert, Charley Egan, Young Loughery and many others known to fame a few years ago.

He has twice defeated the former middleweight champion, George Chip; he defeated Eddie McGeeney and George Chip in 20-round bouts when both of these fighters were at their best and were considered as likely to knock off Mike Gibbons. If given a chance, he has fought Harry Greb, Mike Gibbons and other leading middleweights of the day in no-decision events; and in all his career he has lost but three decisions, and here we arrive at the crux of the story. One of the men to gain a decision over Smith was Georges Carpentier. That was in 1918 in Paris, when Carpentier was just coming into his own, following knockouts suffered at the hands of Tapke and Klaus in the year previous.

Since that time Smith has steadily advanced and many of his best bouts have been fought since 1918. On the other hand Carpentier has been idle for nearly seven years, having fought only three actual ring contests in that period, if his few exhibitions are excepted.

The other two decisions over Smith were his foul of Darcy and a 15-round adverse decision gained over Mike O'Dowd at New York last year. Carpentier will have a considerable weight advantage over Smith, when they fight, but the New York middleweight is a desperately hard man to punish, owing to his strong defense.

Welling Due Sunday.

Joe Welling, Benny Leonard's opponent at the Coliseum next Thursday night, is expected to see Sunday to complete his training. Welling's manager has written the Future City Athletic Club that his man will be here five days before the bout, following a rest and light work at Hot Springs, Ark.

He adds that the club may rest assured that Welling will deliver a 100 per cent bout, in his effort to turn the tables on Leonard.

Leonard Due Next Tuesday.

Billy Gibson, manager of Benny Leonard, today telegraphed the Future City A. C. that Leonard and his party of four would leave Dayton, O., immediately after a boxing engagement there on Feb. 21, and would be at the Statler Hotel here on Feb. 22.

Hurlers Sherdel And Schulz Sign With Rickeymen

Southpaw Last Season Was Champion Relief Pitcher in the National League.

Bill Sherdel, the Cardinals' champion relief pitcher, is the latest member of the club to sign his contract for the 1921 season. The signed document of the left-hander was received at local headquarters today. Walter Schulz, the St. Louis boy, swung into the fold yesterday. Schulz was sent to Richmond as part payment for Kitcher last season and then recalled. He was obtained by the Knott-Holers from the Mount Vernon club.

Sherdel's chief duty during the 1920 season was to replace faltering starters. He started very few games and hurled the complete distance only occasionally. He finished with 11 victories and 10 defeats, pitching 168 2-3 innings. While batted hard, being found for 14 hits, he showed good control, passing only 32 batters. He struck out 74.

During the campaign Rickey called upon him to rescue a mate on 28 different occasions. He was taken out of the box only nine times.

The Case of Bill Pertica. While Bill Pertica, the right-hander obtained from Los Angeles, has not signed his 1921 contract, he is not considered a real holdout at headquarters. The first to contract with the Feb. 1 rule was for a nominal salary and the second later with an increase in stipend included.

Johnnie Kilbane, featherweight champion, has been offered $25,000 by Jack Callahan, Tulsa, Ok., promoter, to defend his title against Andy Chaney at Tulsa July 4. Eddie Meade, Chaney's manager, announced here today. Meade said he had closed with Callahan for the bout.

TULSA OFFERS KILBANE $25,000 FOR TITLE BOUT WITH CHANEY, JULY 4.

PORT WORTH, Tex., Feb. 18.—Johnnie Kilbane, featherweight champion, has been offered $25,000 by Jack Callahan, Tulsa, Ok., promoter, to defend his title against Andy Chaney at Tulsa July 4. Eddie Meade, Chaney's manager, announced here today. Meade said he had closed with Callahan for the bout.

TULSA PROMOTER HAS NOT SIGNED CHANEY.

TULSA, Ok., Feb. 18.—Jack Callahan, a local promoter, last night denied that he had closed a deal with Eddie Meade, manager of Andy Chaney, for a bout here between Chaney and Johnny Kilbane for the featherweight boxing championship. Callahan said he and Meade did not agree as to terms.

UNIVERSITY CITY PLAYS CLAYTON FIVE TONIGHT.

University City and Clayton were able to crawl up a sensational record while touring Japan during the winter. He pitched in 27 innings, and in that time did not allow a hit or run. The only better to reach first against him was hit by a pitched ball, that's quite a record in any old kind of company.

MEINHARDT TAKES LEAD IN CITY TENPIN EVENT.

Harry Meinhardt, a member of the Martin Follies, took the lead in the all-events of the city bowling tournament on the Stein Junior alleys, with a total of 1729 last night. He went into a tie for second place in the singles with 625.

Jack Herbert and Frank Lantz did the best work in doubles last night with 1171. Dowling went into fourth place in the singles with 620.

Pirates Sign Collegian.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Feb. 18.—Samuel Wilson of Glendale, Pa., near Philadelphia, former Illinois University baseball catcher, has signed a contract to play with the Pittsburgh Pirates club next season. Officially of the Pirates since today, Wilson will go South with the team for spring training. After graduating from Lehigh several years ago, Wilson played in the Bethlehem Steel League.

Millers Play Scullins.

The Ben Millers and the Scullins will fight it out for first place in the feature game of the St. Louis Soccer League at Cardinal Field Sunday. The Innishalls and Cord Co. fight it out in the opener.

MURCHISON DEFEATED IN HANDICAP EVENT.

NEWARK, N. J., Feb. 18.—Loren Murchison of St. Louis, running under the colors of the Illinois A. C., finished fourth in a 75-yard handicap dash at the indoor games of the St. Joseph's Catholic Club here last night. Bernie Wefer Jr. was the winner, followed by Eddie Braten and Joseph Gibson, second and third, respectively. Ed Leslie defeated Mike Devaney and Jack Sellers in the 100-yard handicap feature.

V. L. to Open April 21.

WILSON, N. C., Feb. 18.—Directors of the Virginia League, in session here yesterday, adopted a schedule of 138 games, to begin April 21 and close Sept. 24. William B. Bradley was elected president.

DETROIT UNIVERSITY DEFEATS ST. L. U. 31-25 DESPITE WEBER'S PLAY

DETROIT, Mich., Feb. 18.—St. Louis University's basketball team struck a snag in the University of Detroit here last night and perished under a 31 to 25 count.

Weber, St. Louis forward, played remarkable basketball, scoring 23 of his team's total and converted about the floor in a way that worried the Detroiters.

Detroit led from the start and at half time the score was 21 to 17. In the second session the Mount City team braced up and kept the Red and White well occupied.

Judging from their playing the St. Louisans, aside from Weber, were not their best as their work seemed to snap until late in the second half, when they arose too late to be real threats.

St. Louis also paid too much attention to Willie Voss, and let Molitor run. This proved disastrous, as the University of Detroit secured 12 field goals and played nicely on the floor.

Summary: U. of D. Position. St. Louis. Molitor.....Left forward... Von Acken.....Right forward... Weber.....Center... Laves.....Left guard... Mueller.....Right guard... Roch.....Goal-Molitor 6, Bohan 3, Voss 3, Fitzpatrick, Heath, Weber 7, Von Acken, Goals from outside 4, Molitor 9, Roberts—Olds (Michigan). Substitution—Fitzpatrick for Bohan, Heath for Bohan, Darcy for Fitzpatrick.

YALE ROWING SCHEDULE INCLUDES BIG EVENTS.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Feb. 18.—The Yale rowing schedule, announced yesterday, shows the Blue oarsmen are booked for an active season on the water this year. Crew candidates are to report for the first time today and the attempt will be made to practice on the harbor here next Monday.

Guy Nickalls, head rowing coach, is expected to arrive from England about March 1 to take charge of the oarsmen.

The first races of the Yale crews are scheduled for April 15, when the varsity and junior eights will meet Pennsylvania on the Housatonic River at Derby. On April 29, Columbia will be the opponent of the Blue in varsity and freshman races at Derby. Massachusetts Tech is scheduled to send a crew against the Yale junior boat at Derby on May 14.

The triangular regatta between Cornell, Princeton and Yale will take place on Lake Cayuga, at Ithaca, on May 21. Yale has entered a 150-pound crew in the American Henley regatta at Philadelphia on May 28.

On June 24 the dual regatta with Harvard is to be held on the Thames, at New London, with varsity, junior and freshman races.

SCHOLASTIC BASEBALL SCHEDULE ARRANGED.

The High School League baseball season will be opened on April 9, with a double-header at High School (League) at Francis Gymnasium, last night. The title came with a 24 to 16 victory over the Ryerson five. The Southwestern team won the game, and consequently the contest was the hardest played one of the season in that division.

Neither team had much of a scoring punch, but played defensive basketball and let the scoring opportunities take care of themselves. The Ryerson forwards could not get going and consequently most of the shots came from within the shooting area. Russell Nies, Ryerson guard, stood out as the star of the contest.

In the other games of the division, the Mississippi Valley team won from the Rice-Six five, 17 to 12, and the Southwestern team won from the American T. T. 20 to 12.

Spalding Meets Kenrick.

Spalding High School, court champions of Peoria, Ill., will call tomorrow for a game with the Kenrick High School team. The visitors come with a record of nine victories in 12 contests, and have scored 833 points as against 256 for their opponents.

This is the first time in a number of years that a scholastic squad has come from such a distance for a game in this city.

Principia Opposes Soldan.

The third and final game of the series between Principia Academy and Soldan High will be played to night on the Principia court. Soldan won the first game, while Principia won the second. Both teams are in their strongest lineups for the play. The lineups follow:

Halas to Coach Staleys.

DECATUR, Ill., Feb. 18.—George Halas, former Illinois University star and for one year one of the mainstays on the Staley baseball and football eleven, has been named athletic director of the Staleys, to have complete charge of affairs. Joe McGinnity will manage the 1921 baseball team.

CHICAGO, Feb. 18.—The Chicago National League club has booked 28 games for its training trip, with the possibility of playing one or two more games, according to announcement today by William Veeck, president of the club. The club is to train on the Pacific Coast. The main squad will leave Chicago March 3 and arrive at Pasadena, Cal., March 6.

Pikers Will Miss Gaylord in Game With Concordia

Thumser and Leffler, Other Injured Stars, Expected to Take Their Stations.

The Washington University basketball squad will present a changed lineup when it meets the Concordia Seminary five at Francis Gymnasium tomorrow night. Inasmuch as this will be the first contest of the series between Concordia, Washington and St. Louis U. to establish the local collegiate title, the Pikers will make every effort to "come back" after the disastrous trip of last week.

The change places Thumser at forward instead of at center and puts Tommy O'Brien, erstwhile substitute, at the latter position. The shift was necessitated by the illness of Gaylord, who has played at forward all season.

This change should strengthen the team offensively, inasmuch as it will put the best scorer of the squad, Thumser, in a position for shooting. Heretofore the five has been without a concentration point for its passing; and with Thumser at an open forward the difficulty should be obviated. However, O'Brien is an inexperienced player and unless he clings to his opponent as Thumser has, the team will be weakened defensively.

Leffler's ankle has not as yet healed, but it is certain that he will start the game at a guard station. Yesterday was the first time that he has participated in the practice this week.

Blue Bells Win Title.

The Blue Bells won the championship of the Thursday Night Industrial Division (Municipal Basketball League) at Francis Gymnasium, last night. The title came with a 24 to 16 victory over the Ryerson five. The Southwestern team won the game, and consequently the contest was the hardest played one of the season in that division.

Neither team had much of a scoring punch, but played defensive basketball and let the scoring opportunities take care of themselves. The Ryerson forwards could not get going and consequently most of the shots came from within the shooting area. Russell Nies, Ryerson guard, stood out as the star of the contest.

WRAY'S COLUMN

It's Up to Willie Hoppe.

EDOUARD HOREMANS, the Belgian cueist, who is the newest thorn in the side of Champion Willie Hoppe, has definitely refused to cover the forfeit posted by Hoppe to bind a championship match next fall. Coming after all the coil and turmoil raised by Horemans's ballyhoo men, this would seem to relieve the champion of any burden of responsibility for failure to arrange a contest.

Yet, in the reason offered by the Horemans party, there is real merit. Hoppe's forfeit conditions make it incumbent on the Belgian to accept a match of not more than 1000 points, to be played on the afternoon and night of one day. Horemans, however, contends that this is too short a test to be convincing and declares he will accept nothing short of a 2400-point contest.

In this he appears to be in the right, for the longer the journey the less chance there would be of one man losing through an accident. Hoppe, confident in his own efficiency, should be ashamed not to meet the newcomer on even terms in the matter of a long match.

In the days of Jake Schaefer the Wizard and Frank Ives, championships were decided in six-day contests. In England, at English style billiards, matches run for days and the total number of points mounts up to 15,000 and 20,000, in deciding titles. It is obvious that the greater the number of points played, the more convincing is the test of the players' merits.

Whatever rights Hoppe may have as champion, he is making a mistake if he permits Horemans to spread the propaganda that he (Willie) fears to meet him in a real test.

Cochran May Settle It.

NOT that we think Hoppe is in any serious danger of losing his title at this time. The fine averages credited to Horemans indicate his arrival in this country since he is a top-class player; but so do the figures made by Weiker Cochran and Young Jake Schaefer.

For example, take the case of Cochran and Schaefer, who beat each other regularly; the last time they met, which was but a few days ago, Cochran defeated Schaefer, 2400 to 2043 with a grand average of 59. This is strictly in the highest flight. The last night's play saw Cochran run out his 800 points in three innings. This Schaefer match was better than any 2400-point event played by Horemans in this country, so far as we have observed in the news reports. It may also well be that Horemans will bow to Cochran, when they meet in the proposed contest in a few weeks.

And yet Cochran, despite his wonderful playing in inconsequential matches during the past few years, has never been able to make Hoppe extend himself.

If Horemans defeats Cochran convincingly, there will be no chance for Hoppe to refuse the terms of a match with the Belgian; but until the visiting player accomplishes the feat, the gambler who have been predicting Horemans would be the next world's champion might do well to sit quiet and await developments.

The statement may not as it boomerang, should the indicted men be acquitted. For, if the law says they are not guilty, Hoppe's statement may be revived as indicating a conspiracy to deprive them of their regular means of making a livelihood.

The situation, with respect to blacklisting these men, is not without its awkward features for organized baseball. It would never do to permit them to play; and yet if acquitted, on what ground can they be prevented from playing?

The well-known "gentlemen's agreement" not to employ them will get a severe workout, we apprehend, if the courts fail to convict next month.

Martin to Challenge Dempsey If He Defeats Bill Brennan Tonight

Inter-Alleed Champion to Encounter Rough Going at Madison Square Garden, His Opponent Having Knocked Out His Last Five Opponents in Recent Contests.

NEW YORK, Feb. 18.—Bob Martin, one of the best two heavyweights developed in the army during war days, will get a first rate opportunity tonight to show the Doubting Thomases just how much there was in army boxing after all. He faces Bill Brennan, a battle-scarred veteran of hundreds of fistie engagements, in Madison Square Garden, and he has 15 rounds in which to do some talk old demonstrating.

He is meeting Brennan at a time when Bill seems to be at his best. William, fresh from a 12-round spat with the Demon Champion, is hitting on all cylinders, as four or five knockouts in a row will attest.

Bob Martin with Bob Roper, proved to be the best of quite a brigade of army heavyweights. He won the A. E. F. championship by beating Fay Kaiser in 10 rounds at Cirque de Paris on April 27, 1919. He added to his heavyweight laurels what he knows as Capt. Chandler, a member of the British army, by knocking out the latter in 10 rounds at Pershing Stadium, Paris, France, on July 4, 1919. In a total of 55 bouts he has won all but 10 of them with knockouts.

Of course, many of these knockouts were scored against the great unknowns of army boxing, but the record stamps the young giant as a fighter. Martin is an inch and a half taller than Brennan, though both weigh in the neighborhood of 185 pounds, and, strange to say, measure up almost to the dot. William is the older man and, as far as experience in the ring goes, is a veteran compared to the handsome soldier.

Since turning professional Martin's best efforts have been the quick

SUPERINTENDENT OF STATE

NEW YORK, Feb. 18.—There is nothing in the rules of the U. S. F. A. to prevent the transfer of the replay of the Scullins-Braeburns fight to St. Louis, if the Bricks are willing and the St. Louis police don't put in a protest.

Cup Tie Replay May Be Held Here

NEW YORK, Feb. 18.—There is nothing in the rules of the U. S. F. A. to prevent the transfer of the replay of the Scullins-Braeburns fight to St. Louis, if the Bricks are willing and the St. Louis police don't put in a protest.

Spiked Golfing Shoes Ruin Greens, Braeburn Club Members Advised

A move to abandon the spiked golf shoes in favor of rubber soled ones has been stated by the Greens Committee of the Braeburn (Mass.) golf club, according to a letter received by the Post-Dispatch. The communication, which is a copy of a notice sent by the club to all its members, reads as follows:

Braeburn Country Club, West Newton, Mass., Jan. 21, 1921.

To Golfing Members:

In a letter this summer your attention was called to the injury that is done to the putting green by certain types of golf shoes, and your committee believes the time has come when you should discontinue the use of shoes with spikes.

This is not only for the sake of the greens, but because players are finding that their great satisfaction that their game is improved by the various forms of rubber soles.

We therefore suggest that when buying new shoes, or having your present ones repaired, you get some one of the various makes of vacuum rubber soles.

Cup Tie Replay May Be Held Here

Nothing in the Rules to Prevent, if the Bricks Are Willing.

NEW YORK, Feb. 18.—There is nothing in the rules of the U. S. F. A. to prevent the transfer of the replay of the Scullins-Braeburns fight to St. Louis, if the Bricks are willing and the St. Louis police don't put in a protest.

Before returning to Chicago, Secretary W. R. Cummings of the Bricks talked of such a transfer, but his principal concern seemed to be whether the enthusiasm of the St. Louis fans could be confined to the stand. He was a little fearful that it might slip over onto the playing field and bring the fans with it, in case the Bricks win, as he says they are certain to do.

In the excitement of the big question of the replay the secretary forgot to announce, after the meeting that Player Oberle, of the Scullins, was fined $5 and suspended for 14 days for making a most unkind suggestion to Referee McKenzie, when the squabble was at its height. The suspension dates from the day of the game, when it went into effect automatically and therefore expired last Sunday evening, so all he has to do to take part in the replay is to pay the fine.

CATCHER SCHANG OF YANKEES A HOLDOUT

NEW YORK, Feb. 18.—Vallie Schang as a holdout is not considered seriously by Miller Huggins, manager of the New York Yankees, who returned to the city yesterday from the South.

Huggins said he understands Schang, who came to the Yankees in a trade with the Boston Red Sox, wants more money because living expenses are greater in New York than in the Hub.

"I told Schang he didn't have to go to Hot Springs for preliminary training unless he so desired, so there's no significance in the fact that he didn't join."

Frank Baker, former "home run king," decides to return to the game. Huggins said he probably would give him a chance at the third sack, moving Ward to second and sending "Chief" Foster to the outfield.

Huggins announced he would join his rookie squad at Shreveport, La., on March 1, and admitted that in the meantime he would search for an additional catcher.

Hugh Jennings, new assistant manager of the Giants, who it is reported, will be the field leader of the team in the coming gonfalon campaign, was booked as a passenger aboard the steamship Creole, leaving here today for New Orleans.

HEAVYWEIGHTS BATTLE IN PASTIME FEATURE

Jack Thompson and George Godfrey, heavyweights, will meet in the feature bout of the Pastime A. C. negro boxing show, tonight.

Thompson has met Harry Wills and other leading heavies in the colored division. Godfrey, who will be making his first appearance here, has a good record. The remainder of the card is as follows:

Young Rollins, Memphis, vs. Leroy Johnson, St. Louis, six rounds at 125 pounds.

Young Haley of Springfield, Ill., vs. John Billeff, St. Louis, eight rounds at 125 pounds.

Eugene Sims, Memphis, vs. Buddy Davis, Indianapolis, eight rounds at 125 pounds.

Tickets can be obtained at Stanley's, Eighteenth and Washington; Harry Paul's tire shop, Eighteenth and Chestnut, and at the club.

AMERICAN LEAGUE TO CARRY NINE UMPIRES

CHICAGO, Feb. 18.—There will be nine members on the umpiring staff of the American League during the 1921 season, President B. B. Johnson announced today. The ninth member of the staff probably will be Frank Wilson, who officiated in the Western League last season. Johnson said that it was his intention to have the entire staff work throughout the season by using three arbiters in some of the games.

The other eight members of the staff are William Evans, Olie Chill, Clarence Owens, George Moriarty, George Hildebrand and Richard Nallin.

BROGAN'S BOXING BILL ENGROSSED IN SENATE

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 18.—The Brogan boxing bill, which would make professional boxing legal in Missouri, was engrossed in the Senate late yesterday. The measure provides for a boxing commission to be appointed by the Governor, which would be empowered to regulate professional bouts in the State.

Tiger Players to Report

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Feb. 18.—Johnny Bassler, Bobby Jones, Lew Blum, John C. Oldham, Carl Holling and Howard Ehmke, in Los Angeles yesterday, announced they would leave Feb. 27 for the Texas training camp of the Detroit Americans.

CUBS TO EAT ONLY TWO MEALS DAILY WHILE ON SPRING TRAINING TRIP

CHICAGO, Feb. 18.—Two meals a day for all except the veteran pitchers, will be the rule at the Chicago Cubs training camp in Southern California, it was announced today by Manager Johnny Evers.

Breakfast by 9 o'clock, three hours practice, with perhaps more for the recruits, and the evening meal, will be the program, Evers said, except for Alexander, Vaughn and a few veterans, who will be called on to carry the pitching burden right from the start.

Two weeks of such conditions, Evers believes, will prevent the squad from reporting for the season opening game in poor shape because of overweight.

The full squad will start practice March 7 at Tournament Field, Pasadena.

A. A. Signs Umpire Daily

CHICAGO, Feb. 18.—With the signing of Cornelius Daly, President T. Hickey of the American Association today began the task of lining up the staff of umpires for the 1921 season. Daly, officiated in the Western Canada league last season and formerly was in the Western, Central and International leagues.

Pesek Beaten By Lewis' Headlock

Defeated Wrestler Unconscious After Champion Captures Second Fall.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Feb. 18.—Ed (Strangler) Lewis, heavyweight wrestling champion, defeated John Pesek, aspirant to the title, in straight falls here last night. Lewis won the first fall in one hour, 10 minutes and 14 seconds after having applied the headlock several times.

He won the second fall with a headlock in 12 minutes, 32 seconds. Pesek apparently was unconscious for several minutes after the second fall.

As Pesek lay on the floor the crowd, which had jeered Lewis frequently during the match, closed about the ring. Several policemen surrounded the champion and he left the arena with them after Pesek had revived.

CHANGES PROPOSED IN MINNESOTA BOXING LAW

ST. PAUL, Feb. 18.—Several changes in the boxing law of Minnesota will be proposed to the State Legislature, it was announced here today. A measure is being prepared for introduction next week.

It will provide for a new State athletic commission, to be appointed by the Governor from among officers of the State National Guard or naval militia; would permit 20-round bouts to a decision and limit the price of all seats to a $5 maximum. Under the present law 10-round no-decision contests are permitted.

After 10 per cent of the receipts have been deducted for the State tuberculosis fund, the remainder would be distributed quarterly between recognized National Guard and naval militia units in the State.

ALL-MISSOURI AMATEUR TRAPSHOOT TEAM WINS

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 18.—Scores were low but close yesterday in the 150 target race of the seventeenth annual Interstate trap shooting tournament here. Frank Hughes, of Chicago, R. D. was high gun with 142.

Harve Dixon, Cronoquo, Mo., placed second with 142. O. Pearn, Anshland, Ill., was third, with 140, with Frank Troch, Vancouver, Wash., Grubb, Wetmore, Kan., and O. L. Osborne, Concordia, Kan., trailing in a 129 tie for fourth.

The all-Missouri team captured the Interstate amateur wing shot cup with an 84 score. Pennsylvania team No. 1 and Kansas were tied for second with 79 and Pennsylvania No. 2 and Missouri No. 2 tied for third place at 75.

In the professional class, Mark Aric, Champaign, Ill., broke 142 of his 150 targets. The tournament ends tomorrow.

Shall Germany or France Pay the War Bill?

If Germany doesn't pay, France must. In effect, this is the reply of a large section of the press of the United States to those economists who insist that the war bill presented to Germany by the Allies—226,000,000,000 gold marks payable in forty-two years, plus a 12 per cent export tax—is more than that nation can pay. "The astonishing fact is that it does not seem to have occurred to these British and American pleaders for Germany that if she does not pay for the devastation she methodically wrought, her victims must," exclaims the Philadelphia North American, which points out that "when it is argued that the sum demanded in reparations should be reduced, this means precisely that sufferers from her aggression shall be penalized to the extent of the remission."

On the other hand, some editors are convinced that the Allies are demanding more than Germany can pay. "France wants Germany's blood, and it deserves Germany's blood, but it must get it by transfusion, not by murder," remarks the Louisville Courier-Journal. "Germany can never pay the 226,000,000,000 gold marks indemnity," exclaims the Seattle Times, and the New York Evening World characterizes the reparations program as "amazing and impossible."

SPECIALTIES WEAK IN FAIRLY ACTIVE TRADE IN STOCKS

Rails Relatively Quiet With Price Changes Irregular—
Atlantic Gulf and West Indies Heavy.

By Leased Wire From the New York
Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, Feb. 18.—The New York stock exchange today was characterized by a general weakness in the specialties, while the main body of the market was relatively quiet.

Specialties again dominated the stock market, weakness in shipping, rubber and oil stocks giving a heavy tone to the market. Atlantic Gulf and West Indies was the outstanding feature, selling of this stock being extremely heavy and the price showing a loss of over 10 points in the late afternoon. Another weak feature was Ajax Rubber, which sold off from the start and at one time was down approximately four points. Mexican Petroleum was another point of attack. Trading was on a fairly active basis and not even the reduction of the call rate of 6 per cent, which came at about noon, served to revive prices, while attempts at rallies usually terminated in renewed selling of Atlantic Gulf. Throughout the day the rails were relatively quiet and toward the close showed irregular changes amounting to fraction. Among the industrials the actively sold specialties showed a number of declines of 1 and 2 points, while the changes among the others were irregular.

Following after brief firmness at the opening continued its decline. At the start there was some show of buyers, but the buying orders were easily filled and the price fell from 13.50, which is 1 cent above yesterday's close, to 12.25, which is the lowest for the week. The other European exchanges acted sympathetically, France selling up to 7.20 at the start and then reacting to 7.10, while the dollar was 1.65 on the reaction. Pronounced weakness in Canadian dollars was again a feature, the quotation of 56.00 representing the loss of another 40 points since yesterday. The South American exchanges furnished the strength in the market, registering appreciable gains, presumably on the reports of further dollar loans. Silver at London, however, made another new low, showing a loss of 1/2 of a penny in selling at 12 1/2 pence.

Cotton Reflects Exchange.
Reaction in English exchange and stocks plainly was reflected in the cotton market, the early futures falling to new low records. The March price opened at 12.25, which is 1/2 cent below the previous bottom. Aside from the factors mentioned, the day's weakness may be attributed to a sagging Liverpool market, less favorable domestic trade reports, liquidation of speculative holdings. The present movement of our markets in relation to exchange rates is bringing many to recognize the importance of our own interests of plans for stabilizing exchange through international agreements and credits. In what an early rally, which was aided by reports of cold weather in the Northwest, was lost in the later trading. At the start the March delivery was slightly weaker at 11.85, and after a 4 cent rally it came back to 11.85, which is yesterday's closing price. Some slight revival of export demand is reported but it seems to be too late to establish a new basis for the cotton market. The market from Australia and Argentina is substantially underlining our own in the European market.

"Sentenced" to Wear Pearls Necklace Needs Woman's Care Thirty Days Every Year

California Judge Decides
$100,000 String of Jewels
Must Be Worn to Retain Its Value.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 12. — A BEAUTIFUL young woman—Mrs. James B. Blum of Oakland—has fallen the unique task of retaining the value of a $100,000 pearl necklace.

The duty has been imposed upon her by no less an authority than Superior Judge Thomas F. Graham of San Francisco. He has decreed that for 30 days in each year she must wear the costly string of pearls about her neck—and the 30 days must run consecutively.

It is because the fortune in pearls property of her mother-in-law's estate—she is sick. Be they delicate, or temperamental, or just obstinate, they have lost their luster. Experts have informed the court and the lawyers in the case that only one thing will bring back their proper and delicate shades. That one thing is contact with living flesh. Hence the unusual court order to Mrs. Blum.

The pearls—77 of them—once belonged to Mrs. Rosa Blum, mother-in-law of her new doctor, Mrs. James Blum.

When their long-time owner, Mrs. Rosa Blum, passed away, the pearls were unceremoniously taken to the Anglo-California Trust Co. and there, without regard to temperment or health, deposited in a vault.

Shut out from light and warmth, these pearls now have lost their luster, and a pearl worth its luster is a lipstick sans its rouge.

While the matter of the Blum estate was in the courts, James Blum, member of the estate, and the trust company were officially designated as the Court of the pitiable condition of the incarcerated necklace.

They asked Judge Graham, before whom the case was being heard, that while he is obeying the order of the Court, for to appear with the pearls without a guard might be disastrous and to disregard the Court's order—well, why should a pretty matron put her self in contempt of court?

Now Mrs. Blum is planning to have plain clothesmen watch her while she is obeying the order of the Court, for to appear with the pearls without a guard might be disastrous and to disregard the Court's order—well, why should a pretty matron put her self in contempt of court?

MRS. JAMES BLUM

of experience on the bench. Known as the "Great Reconciler" for his success in restoring harmony in disrupted families, he sought to reconcile the Blums in the case of the pearls. For several days he pondered. Then, when the Blums and their attorneys and the trust company's attorneys came into court again, the Judge announced his decision.

He decreed that Mrs. Blum should be the one to wear the string of pearls, and because of the advice of the pearl experts, he stipulated that the pearls must be worn consecutively for 30 days in every 365, so that their luster shall be kept alive.

Now Mrs. Blum is planning to have plain clothesmen watch her while she is obeying the order of the Court, for to appear with the pearls without a guard might be disastrous and to disregard the Court's order—well, why should a pretty matron put her self in contempt of court?

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

Chatterer Jeers at Happy Jack.

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

Some people can without a doubt
Feel no disgrace unless found out.

—Happy Jack Squirrel.

HAPPY JACK isn't this kind. All the time he was in Bobby Coon's hole for allowing curiosity to lead him to do a thing he knew wasn't right. He knew he would never have the self-respect he had had when he did this thing. "I would hate to be found out," said he to himself, as he carefully and slowly crept down inside Bobby Coon's hole. "I'm glad no one saw me come in and I hope no one will see me go out."

Happy Jack found things just as Chatterer the Red Squirrel had said they were. As he expressed it, there was a pile of Coons' in the bed at the bottom of that hollow. How many there he couldn't tell, but he knew that Chatterer, because they were all together in a mass. He would try to find out. He didn't wait at all comfortable in there, and was in a hurry to get out as soon as he could satisfy his curiosity.

"When he reached Bobby Coon's doorway he carefully peeped out before going out. He wanted to make sure that no one was about to see him leaving Bobby Coon's house. He stepped this way. He peeped that way. He couldn't see anyone. Apparently there was no one about. Happy Jack scrambled out. He heard the sharp voice of his cousin, Chatterer the Red Squirrel, barked from the top of that very tree.

"See him! See him!" shrieked Chatterer gleefully. "He wouldn't go into another's house! Oh, no, he wouldn't go into another's house! He's such a good fellow. My, my, my, he is one such a nice, modest, gray squirrel, even though he would be a thing as going into the house of a neighbor while he slept. Of course not. No indeed. He just got in there BOILED puddings are liable to break if turned out as soon as done. Let them stand a half hour to cool.

Add a teaspoonful of lemon juice to boiling rice. It will whiten the grains and give a pleasant flavor to the pudding.

When boiling fruits put a small piece of butter into the saucepan. It will not boil over and there will be less foam.

When cooking cranberries, add one-half teaspoon soda to one quart of the fruit and you will need less sugar.

Maxims of a Modern Maid

By Marguerite Moores Marshall

FROM a man's point of view, the trouble with marrying a modern woman is that she so often chooses to be a "star" instead of an audience.

Cleopatra Hamilton called marriage a trade; W. L. George describes it as the gentlest art; but for most women it's a life preserver; for most men, a millstone about the neck.

If bachelors are to be taxed, why not make widows the tax collectors?

Once a girl pressed and put away the violets "he" sent her; now she looks at them scornfully and wonders why "he" can't afford orchids.

The only financial transaction a man conceals more carefully than the money he has lent to a woman is the money he has borrowed from her.

No man can ever know what a woman thinks about him, because most of the time she doesn't know herself.

What the short skirt displays may be described as the substance of things hoped for, the evidence of things not (heretofore) seen.

Sometimes kisses are rose petals, covering the tomb of dead love.

There is only about as much difference in what an engaged girl and man tell each other about past love affairs as there is between an unabridged dictionary and one of these young scholar editions.

The last man on earth to accord a woman admiration, praise or respect for work unconnected with himself is her own son.

Ulysses heard the sirens tell the story of their lives, then went on about his business. And ever since men have been trying in vain to follow his example.

A woman often wastes time wondering how she has hurt a man, when it's merely the French cooking at his favorite restaurant that has hurt him.

Self-sacrifice is perhaps the most fruitful of the virtues; it breeds hate in the person who makes it, humiliation or weakness in the person who accepts it.

Synonym for a woman's idea of the last man on earth she would marry: her sister's husband.

The selfish woman is the one who always has the most expensive fur, the latest thing in hats and the most devoted husband.

A MIXED THREESOME

By Pelham Grenville Wodehouse

SECOND INSTALLMENT.

HE burst into tears. I could see the poor girl was in a highly nervous condition, so I did my best to calm her by describing how I had once done the long hole in four. My friends tell me that there is no flatter sorrier; and it seemed as though they may be right. For presently, just as I had reached the point where I laid my approach-putt dead from a distance of 15 feet, she became quieter. She dried her eyes, yawned once or twice, and looked at me bravely.

"I love Eddie Denton!" she said. "I feared as much. When did you feel this coming on?"

"It crashed on me like a thunder-bolt last night after dinner. We were walking in the garden, and he was just telling me how he had been bitten by a poisonous zongo, when I seemed to go all gliddy. When I came to myself, I was in Eddie's arms. His face was pressed against mine, and he was gurgling."

"Gurgling?"

"I thought so at first. But he reassured me. He was merely speaking in one of the lesser-known dialects of the Walla-Walla natives of Eastern Uganda, into which he always drops in moments of great emotion. He soon recovered sufficiently to give me a rough translation, and then I knew that he loved me. He kissed me. I kissed him. We kissed each other."

"And where was Mortimer all this while?"

"Indoors, cataloguing his collection of vases."

"For a moment, I confess, I was inclined to abandon Mortimer's cause. A man, I felt, who could stay indoors cataloguing vases while his fiancée wandered in the moonlight with explorers deserved all that was coming to him. I overcame the feeling."

"Have you told him?"

"Of course not."

"You don't think it might be of interest to him?"

"How can I tell him. It would break his heart. I am awfully fond of Mortimer. So is Eddie. We would both die rather than do anything to hurt him. Eddie is the soul of honor. He agrees with me that Mortimer must never know."

"Then you aren't going to break off your engagement?"

"I couldn't. Eddie feels the same. He says that, unless something can be done, he will say good-by to me and creep far, far away to some distant desert, and there, in the great stillness broken only by the cry of the prowling yongo, try to forget."

"When you say 'unless something can be done,' what do you mean?"

"I thought you might have something to suggest. Don't you think it possible that somehow Mortimer might take it into his head to break the engagement himself?"

"Absurd! He loves you devotedly."

"I'm afraid so," said Betty, dejectedly. "Only the other day I dropped one of his best vases, and he just smiled and said it didn't matter."

"I can give you even better proof than that. This morning Mortimer came to me and asked me to give him secret lessons in golf."

"But why secret lessons?" "Because he wants to keep it a surprise for your birthday. Now can you doubt his love?"

"I am not worthy of him!" she whispered.

The words gave me an idea.

"Suppose, for instance, he could be made to believe that you were, let us say, a diplomatist."

She shook her head.

"He knows that already."

"What?"

"Yes, I told him I sometimes walked in my sleep."

"Nothing will induce me to pretend to be a secret drinker."

"HEN a drug-seller?" I suggested hopefully.

"I hate medicine."

"I have it," I said. "A kleptomaniac."

"What is that?"

"A person who steals things."

"Oh, that's horrid."

"Not at all. It's a perfectly lady-like thing to do. You don't know you do it."

"But, if I don't know I do it, how do I know I do it?"

"I beg your pardon?"

"You don't know I tell Mortimer to do it, if I don't know."

"You don't tell him. I will tell him. I will inform him tomorrow that you called on me this afternoon and he will watch and see. Here, glanced about the room . . . my silver matchbox."

"I'd rather have that little violet cigarette."

"For a moment, I confess, I was inclined to get either. I merely say you stole it. What will happen?"

"Mortimer will hit you with a cleek."

"Not at all. I am an old man. My white hairs protect me. What he will do is to insist on confronting me with you and asking you to deny the foul charge."

"And then?"

"Then you admit it and release him from his engagement."

She sat for a while in silence. I could see that my words had made an impression.

"I think it's a splendid idea. Thank you very much." She rose and moved to the door. "I knew you would suggest something wonderful!" She hesitated, as if she were about to make it sound more plausible if I really took the violet cigarette," she asked a little wistfully.

"It would spoil everything," I replied firmly, as I reached for the violet cigarette and looked it carefully in my desk.

She was silent for a moment, and her glance fell on the carpet. That, however, did not worry me. It was nailed down.

"Well, good-by," she said.

"Au revoir," I replied. "I am meeting Mortimer at six-thirty tomorrow. You may expect us round at your house at about eight."

Mortimer was punctual at the very next morning. When I reached the tenth tee he was already there. We exchanged a brief greeting, and I handed him a driver, outlined the essentials of grip and swing and bade him go to it.

"It seems a simple game," he said,

CELERY SANDWICHES

as he took his stance. "You're sure it's fair to hate the golf-sitting up on top of a young sand-hill like this?"

"Perfectly fair."

"I mean, I don't want to be coddled because I'm a beginner."

"The ball is always teed up for the drive," I assured him.

"Oh, well, if you say so. But it seems to me to take all the element of sport out of the game. Where do I hit it?"

"Oh, straight ahead."

"But isn't it dangerous? I mean, suppose I smash a window in that house over there?"

He indicated a charming blyard residence some five hundred yards down the fairway.

"In that case," I replied, the owner comes out in his pajamas and offers you the choice between some nuts and a cigar."

He seemed reassured, and began to address the ball. Then he paused again.

"Isn't there something you say before you start?" he asked. "Five or something?"

"You may say 'Fore,' if it makes you feel any easier. But it isn't necessary."

"If I am going to learn this silly game," said Mortimer firmly, "I am going to learn it right! Fore!"

I watched him cautiously. I never put a club into the hands of a beginner without something of the feeling of the sculptor who surveys a mass of shapeless clay. I experience the emotion of a creator. Here, made to myself, is a semi-sentient being into whose soulless carcass I am breathing life. A moment before, he was, though technically living, a mere zero. A moment hence he will be a golfer.

W HILE I was still occupied with these meditations, Mortimer swung at the ball. The club, whizzing down, brushed the surface of the rubber sphere, popping it off the tee and propelling it six inches with a slight noise on it.

"Damnation!" said Mortimer, unraveling himself.

I nodded approvingly. His drive had not been anything to write to the golfing journals about, but he was picking up the technique of the game.

"What happened then?"

"I told him in a word."

"Your stance was wrong and your grip was wrong and you moved your head and swayed your body and took your eye off the ball and pressed and forgot to use your wrists and swung back too fast and let the hands get ahead of the club and lost your balance and omitted to pivot on the ball of the left foot and bent your right knee."

He was silent for a moment.

"There is more in this pastime," he said, "than the casual observer would suspect."

I have noticed, and I suppose other people have noticed, that in the golf education of every man there is a definite point at which he may be said to have crossed the dividing line—the Rubicon, as it were—that separates the golfer from the non-golfer. This moment comes immediately after his first good drive. In the 30 minutes in which I instructed Mortimer Eurgis that morning in

As a Woman Thinketh

By Helen Rowland

"ANY WIFE TO ANY HUSBAND."

BE MY FRIEND, BELOVED! This is all I ask—but it is no little thing. In the name of Friendship, do not endow me with all the virtues of a saint—and then expect me to live up to them!

Do not place me on a pedestal. Pedestals are so slippery—and halo SO hard to keep on straight!

It is inspiring to be worshipped—but it is more comfortable to be "liked." You can worship me blind—but you can LIKE me with your eyes wide open. And to keep a man "blinded," forever, is a life-work.

Be my Friend!

Do not cover me with illusions, and invest me with all the charms of a Circe, and the mystery of the Sphinx.

Infatuation is thrilling exhilarating—for a little while; but, like wine, it wears off and is apt to leave you with a headache, a heartache, and that "Oh-what-the-use" feeling.

Do not make me play the "siren."

Be my Friend!

Do not cherish me as a fragile flower or a delicate bit of bric-a-brac.

Chivalry is beautiful—but do not lay down cloak for me to walk upon. Take me by the hand and let us walk together, play together, dance together, race together, climb together, to the summit of Life; and then, together, limp down the hill, still keeping step, through the sunset of the years.

Be my Friend!

Understand me! Do not coddle me and pet me as though I were a spoiled and temperamental child, to be apated all sorrow and kept from the knowledge of unpleasant truths.

Let me share your troubles, your thoughts, your hopes, your disappointments—and even your pleasures and privileges.

If I AM a child, then, for the love of heaven, let me grow up. Do not keep me forever a moron.

Be my Friend!

Respect me—even as I respect you. For this is the foundation rock of Friendship.

Appreciate these few virtues and talents and charms which I possess, but do not ask me to grow OTHERS, which Nature never meant me to possess.

Do not ask me to grow WINGS!

I may change the color of my hair to please you, but I cannot change the color of my soul, nor the shape of my brain, nor the quality of my character.

Help me to live up to my best, my very highest—but do not ask me to live up to another woman, nor to an impossible ideal!

For marriage may be a refinery—but it is not a reformatory!

Be my Friend!

Look at me with clear, friendly, approving, loving eyes—not through rose-colored glasses, nor through blue spectacles, nor through a microscope.

And when you discover a fault or a falling, say of me as of a friend: "Well, that's just her way!"

Be my Friend, Beloved.

Not my worshiper, my adorer, my guardian, my critic, my reformer, my overseer, my slave nor my Sultan—

Just my Friend!

For surely, in the trials and problems of married life, if ever, is this time.

When a woman needs a FRIEND!"

BIZARRE JEWELRY

AMERICAN girls, though at all times less given to bizarre effects than French women, still welcome the unusual in jewelry as well as in other things, and for them Paris has evolved the finger watch ring, the bracelet with a clasp to catch the flowing drapery from the shoulder, and the pendant earrings in many fanciful designs.

Although not ordinarily classed as jewelry, the fanciful combs now worn whose sole raison d'être is decoration, might well be added to it. These combs, mostly of the high elaborate Spanish type, are exquisitely carved or incised with jewels since an evening accessory frequently repeats the note of the jeweled fan carried to match.

We find, too, a way of an odd bit of costume jewelry what is known as the "slave" necklace, and affected by some women. This is a plain gold ring, thicker than the bangle, of course, hinged and clasped so that the joints are imperceptible when it is worn. It does not fit tightly to the neck, but falls about two inches below the throat. The idea of a rigid band might lead one to suppose that the effect would be one of stiffness. This, however, is not so. It is also quite a change from the usual neck decoration and looks most effective.

Artificial jewelry does not, as it

ORANGE CAKE

ONE-THIRD cupful butter, one cupful sugar, two eggs, one-half cupful orange juice, grated rind of one orange, one tablespoonful lemon juice, one and three-quarters cupfuls flour, one-half teaspoonful soda.

Cream butter, add sugar gradually, and eggs, beaten until thick and lemon colored. Sift flour and soda together, four times; add alternately, with combined fruit juices and rind to first mixture. Put in buttered and floured cake pan and bake in a moderate oven, 25 to 40 minutes. Cover with boiled orange frosting.

MORE TRUTH THAN POETRY

By James J. Montague.

POOR LO!

The Indians of the West are now gathering chicken feathers for their war bonnets.

No more the helpless emigrants
In hopeless horror quail
To see the mounted troop advance
Along the mountain trail.
No more the scout, midst wild alarms
That terrorize his days,
Flings arrows from his legs and arms
To build a signal blaze.
For Big Chief Killum-like-a-Shot,
Once terror of the Platte,
Is chasing chickens round the lot
To get his winter hat.

The husky hand that held the bow
Whose arrows straight and light
Once laid the lordly bison low
Or checked the eagle's flight,
The hand that held the flashing blade
That gathered scalp and gore
And many a haughty foe had laid
Amid his flowing gore,
Is reaching for a pullet's throat,
For vanished is his pride,
And Big Chief Killum wants a coat
With feathers down the side.

When Mrs. Farmer hears a row
Among her feathered flock,
She does not shriek with terror now
Or perish from the shock;
She merely takes a rolling pin
Without a qualm or quake
And gathers Big Chief Killum in
And ties him to a stake.
Though still the prairie rolls and heaves
And still the north winds roar,
When Indian chiefs turn chicken thieves
The West is wild no more.

HE'D NEVER COLLECT.
It's a good thing for Uncle Sam that he doesn't require a man to understand an income tax before he pays the tax.

WE'D BETTER BE CAREFUL.
If Uncle Sam lends any more money to Europe it will probably be invested in ocean fares to bring the population of that quarter of the world over here.

KNOWS THEIR BIG CHANCE.
If we were Jerry Travers or Francis Outmet we'd apply for a place in the executive offices right away.

The Final Test.

Some visitors who were being shown over a lunatic asylum inquired of their guide what method was employed to discover when the lunatics were sufficiently recovered to leave.

"Well," he replied, "it's this way.
We have a big trough of water, and we turn on the tap. We leave it running and tell 'em to bail out the water with pails until they've emptied the trough."

"How does that prove it?" asked one of the visitors.

"Well," said the guide, "then as ain't idiots turn off the tap."—Argonaut.

Fishing.

"Simple Simon went a-fishing in his mother's pail, and he caught nothing, of course," said Mr. Angler,
"but he saved carfare and guide hire.
I've done worse myself."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Fellow Workers.

"Mr. Graboon, a man who says he's a 'money digger' would like to see you."

"Hem! Who's he digging for?"

"He didn't say, but he looks poor and I suspect he's digging for himself."

"Hal! Tell him I'm doing the same thing and wish him on my behalf a good morning."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

A Quitter.

"The hired man says he is going to quit."

"Well," said Farmer Cornstossel,
"I'm reconciled. He quit working long ago. The only thing he can quit now is 'showin' up at meal times."—Washington Star.

Good Advice.

"This—uh—glub—spaghetti is awful—lob—glod—slippery stuff," complained a customer in the rapid-fire restaurant.

"Aw, don't try to eat it with your knife!" briskly said Heloise, the waitress. "Catch it by the tail and eat it in."—Country Gentleman.

Inevitable.

A pure-food expert declares that the use of sugar in soft drinks will satisfy the craving for alcohol.
Sh-sh! Now there'll be an amendment forbidding the use of sugar in soft drinks.—Tacoma Ledger.

Efficiency on the Farm.

Cow: Can you beat it? There's so much system around here now that they file me in the barn under the letter "C."

Hen: Yes, I have my troubles with efficiency, too. They've put a rubber stamp in my nest so I can date my eggs two weeks ahead.—
American Legion Weekly.

A Secret.

Harry: What do you mean by getting Mabel that I'm a fool?

Larry: Well, I'm sorry—was it a secret?—Detroit News.

That's True.

The door closed behind an intru-sioner who had come to complain regarding certain of Willie's shortcomings.

A few moments later, as Willie was tearfully preparing for a prematurely early bedtime, he said to his mother:

"I wish we lived in heaven, mother."

His mother demanded to know the cause of his sudden aspiration toward better things.

"Oh, well," he sighed, "you know the angels wouldn't be hit as hard to please as the neighbors are."— Chicago News.

Ouch!

"It says here that women's tongues are their weapons," remarked the Old Fogey, as he looked up from the newspaper he was reading.

"Then they'll never be arrested for carrying concealed weapons," said
the Grouch.—Nashville Tennessean.

In Conclusion.

"Dat hoss was so slow," glowered
Rastus over the remains of the unfortunate equine that had just lost a race over a railroad crossing, "he was so slow day ain't no hoss in de world go slower."

"Come de judgment day and St.
Peter'll say, 'All yo' dead men come forth.' Den dey'll all come forth.
Den he'll say, 'All yo' dead ladies come forth. Fin'ly he'll say, 'All yo' dead hosses come forth.'"

"And las fo' spite dat hoss he'll come fift'."—American Legion Weekly.

And Out!

Wilkins: Why is Brooks winding up his affairs?

Bilkins: Oh, just because the dootor tells him he is all run down.—
Cartoons Magazine.

Tempus Fugit.

The traveler raced his fastest to the one-horse railway station and missed the train by the most vexa-tious of narrow margins.

"When is the next train in that direction?" he asked, pointing to the receding cars.

"Tomorrow," answered the station agent.

"At what time?"

"Just one minute sooner than right now."—American Legion Weekly.

The Modern Idea.

"Do you remember the parable of the man who wrapped his money in a napkin?" asked the Sunday school teacher.

"Yes, ma'am," replied the tow-headed boy.

"What was the meaning of that?"

"Why, I guess the man intended the money as a tip for the waiter."
